Finds New Job In Moscow

One day the director of his school called me to report that Oleg was absent that day. I went to look for the boy, and found him in the Komsomol headquarters.

"Olya, why aren't you in school?" I asked.

"Mamochka, pardon me," he answered. "They gave me an assignment, and I had to fulfill it."

I decided then and there that to save my boy I would have to leave town with him for good. His education was being neglected and perverted.

I decided that the province of Moscow would be the most desirable district for us to settle in. I then had relatives in Moscow itself. Furthermore, a faint hope stirred within me that being near the capital I might somehow learn something about the fate of Demyan.

I wrote direct to the Moscow "Obshchaya" the department of education for the province of Moscow, outlining my qualifications, listing my references, and stating that the reason for my application was my desire to raise my boy in an atmosphere of Russian culture, away from the Ukraine. We did not regard ourselves as Ukrainians.

I Leave For Moscow

MY LETTER struck a responsive chord in the heart of a certain Mikhailov, whom I did not then know, who was in charge of all the provincial schools. He invited me to come to Moscow for an interview, and to bring all my papers and documents along.

Upon my arrival in Moscow I was received with open arms by the veteran educator Mikhailov. He had been seeking an experienced instructor in natural sciences to fill a sudden vacancy. I was left to guess what had caused it, but during the great purge even a shrug of the shoulders told a familiar story.

My chief worry was how to deal with the inevitable question of my marital status. I decided to answer it with the simple statement that I was a widow. To my great relief there was no further probing by Mikhailov who was delighted with all my diplomas and documents, as there were not many qualified natural science teachers to be found.

"You're just the one we need," he said. "We have here, in the district of Ruza, quite a school, a model institution with a natural history museum, a meteorological station for children, and a prized library of some 3,000 volumes." I got the position. The school, located at Tuchkovo, some 50 miles west of Moscow, occupied the former estate of Dubrovina, with a mansion having gilded mirrors, murals, and fine mosaic decorations. The former owner had long since been dispossessed. Included in the institution, was a two-story brick building erected by the Zemstvo—the liberal social welfare body which under the Czar had built up a national network of schools and hospitals.

Another Victim

HERE, indeed, was an institution the Soviet government could with pride exhibit to distinguished foreign visitors. I was curious to learn who had developed it. But there was a strange hush whenever that question was raised. I had an inkling when I discovered that the mother of my predecessor, a sorrowful and lonely little old woman, was living on the estate. Soon enough the mystery was cleared up by the new director, Anatoli Kuchmazov, a militant Communist of the Central Asiatic Bashkir tribe, who took me around the place. He even spoke Russian with a thick accent. The subject he taught in the school was the history of the Communist Party.

"With your rich experience,

A smile of happiness lights the face of Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina as her sister, Mrs. Eugenia Robertson of London, Eng., embraces her in her bed in Roosevelt Hospital, New York, when they met for the first time in 30 years. Mrs. Robertson flew to New York by Pan American Airways for the reunion at her sister's invitation. Each was unaware that the other was alive until Mrs. Kasenkina made her dramatic leap to death or freedom from a window of the Russian Consulate last August. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

you can do big things here," he observed on the tour, clinging to me all day and until late into the night. I was fascinated by the specimens in the museum, by the order in the herbarium and the library, which boasted a truly valuable collection of books on astronomy. Everything had its proper label. Kuchmazov felt my admiration and soon satisfied my curiosity.

He took some volumes off the shelves and sarcastically read to me verses on religious themes which had been tucked away in certain volumes. The author, it appeared, was his predecessor, Ivanov, whose specialty was natural science and meteorology. With relish, Kuchmazov cited this and other things as evidence of Ivanov's counter-revolutionary activity. Well, this "enemy of the people" had been taken care of, he intimated. Ivanov had been packed off to a polar camp to serve as a meteorologist.

The old mother, I ascertained later, would go off to Moscow now and then, trying to find out where her son had been exiled and the term of his sentence. She would come back empty-handed. My own grief had to be a deep secret. No sign of life reached me from my own Demyan.

Now I thought the hurricane was behind me and that nothing more could happen to us. So I

Striking Seamen Jailed Two Years

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Nine members of the Canadian Seamen's Union, pleading guilty to charges of mischief and assault, were sentenced Monday to serve two-year terms on each charge. The sentences will run concurrently with a two-year term imposed Sept. 28 for boarding.

The charges arose out of the boarding at Thorold, Ont., of the Canada Steamships Line's freighter Glenelg, April 22. The incident arose during the dispute between the union and four Great Lakes shipping companies.

Sentence Reduced

Appeal from sentence, with a subsequent reduction from six months to one month, was allowed by Court of Appeal Monday, in the case of Alexander McKendrick, convicted of assaulting his wife and occasionally her bodily harm at Lady-smith.

Appearing on his own behalf, McKendrick contended the sentence was not justified under the circumstances.

The charge arose over a quarrel resulting from the cutting of a hot apple pie.

Court was told of a previous fine in May of $100 levied on the appellant for assaulting his wife. In handing down judgment, Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan warned the appellant that if he ever appeared in the Court of Appeal again he would be more severely dealt with.

brought Oleg from Slavayansk and made a new home in the former quarters of my predecessor Ivanov. I planned to build a secure future for my boy. Little did I dream that the long vindictive arm of the terror which had struck down my husband would read out for my son.

Martin Straith, Of Well-Known City Family, Dies

J. Martin Straith, 55, member of the well-known Straith family of Victoria, and son of the late Rev. Peter and Mrs. Straith died from a heart attack Monday while driving his automobile in North Vancouver.

Manager of the George Straith Ltd. store at Vancouver, Mr. Straith had been ill for two years. He apparently anticipated the attack but failed to apply the brakes and the car, traveling at a slow rate, swerved off the road into a fence.

Born at Innerkip, Ont., Mr. Straith was educated at Mount Forest, Ont., and came west to Victoria in 1912, after spending three years in Saskatchewan.

He served for five years in the First World War, going overseas with the C.E.F. He later transferred to the Oxford and Bucks Light Infantry and saw service in Persia. He spent the last six months of service on the North West Frontier.

At the close of the war Mr. Straith served a year transporting food to the starving of southern Russia, Armenia and surrounding countries.

Prior to his enlistment he was articled to the legal firm of Macfarlane and Boyle in Victoria and on his return entered business with his brothers George and Alex of George Straith Limited.

Surviving are his widow, the former Gwen Gaze, and two children, Carole and David; four brothers and four sisters. They are Hon. W. T. Straith, K.C., Minister of Education; George and Alex of Victoria, Dr. Balfour Straith of Los Angeles, Mrs. C. C. Cook, Mrs. T. L. Waldon and Miss Helen Straith, all of Victoria, and Mrs. Glen Fuller, California.

A brother, Dr. P. L. Straith of Courtenay, died three years ago. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Vancouver Father's Search For Son In England Futile

LONDON (CP)—John Sutherland, 65-year-old Vancouver man who came to Britain last July to search for his son Wilfred, an airman posted as missing during the Second World War, was scheduled to fly home today without him.

"I am a bit disappointed, but there's still hope," Sutherland said Monday.

He hasn't given up the hunt. He said he would come back next March to resume the search.

A flight-sergeant in the R.C.A.F., Wilfred who now would be 30 if he were alive—disappeared on a bombing raid over Borkum, an island in The Netherlands, in April, 1943. Sutherland said that while on a holiday in Britain last March he saw his son at King's Cross station in London.

"He was standing just a few yards away. I knew it was my son. I'd know him anywhere," the father said.

"I was so shocked I couldn't move. He stared at me as if trying to recall my face—he must have been suffering loss of memory. He seemed puzzled and then walked away and was lost in the crowd."

Sutherland said in an interview that he would return to Canada but felt he had to return and search for Wilfred.

A photograph of Mrs. Mary Symes, of Epping (Essex), taken on her 102nd birthday, is to be shown in a local health exhibition.

Clash At Convention Looms Over Sweepstake

The question of Unit No. 33 Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans in Canada operating a sweepstake in Quebec City, is scheduled to be discussed at a directors' meeting prior to the opening of the national convention of the veterans organization here Wednesday.

The Quebec City group is the only unit in the Army, Navy and Airforce Association operating a sweepstake in Canada.

Questioned about the Quebec unit operating a sweepstake, A. J. Wickens, K.C., of Moose Jaw, Dominion president of the organization, said that the association had received a report that Unit No. 33 was operating a sweepstake.

"The matter will be discussed at a meeting of board of directors," he said.

Asked for his personal opinion concerning sweepstakes, Mr. Wickens said that he was in favor of sweepstakes "as long as they are operated by the state."

Lt.-Col. C. A. Young, Quebec City delegate, refused to comment on the operation of a sweepstake by Unit 33.

"I have nothing to say," he said, "except that it is tolerated in Quebec province."

have had no suit taken against them as the result of the accidents in which the cars were involved. The law provides that these cars must be released after six months.

Anscomb Seeking Drew Visit To B.C.

Mr. Anscomb returned Monday from the Conservative convention in Ottawa, enthusiastic about the success of the party in the next federal general election. He said he believed Canadians would support the Progressive Conservatives "standing firm for free enterprise and freedom of the individual."

The minister also expressed pleasure at the selection of Mr. Drew to lead the party.

Veterans Suggest Canada Now Bar Entry Of D.P.'s

A resolution requesting the Dominion government give preference to prospective immigrants from the British Isles and to halt the entry into Canada of displaced persons from Europe, will be submitted to the national convention of the Army, Navy and Air Force Association opening here Wednesday.

The resolution will be submitted by Calgary Unit No. 27, Reg Davey, Hamilton, and George Blane, Kitchener, forecass the resolution would receive the strong support of the Ontario delegation.

The resolution states that there will be a general lowering of the standard of living in Canada if the present system of immigration is allowed to continue.

"The large influx of displaced persons would make it easy for any foreign power hostile to our way of life to set up a fifth column," the resolution adds.

Mission Craft Lost On Coast; Boy, 14, Missing

Messenger II, sturdy little mission and hospital boat, which has been operating on the West Coast of Vancouver Island for the past 12 years, has been lost and 14-year-old Bruce McLean is missing. Dr. H. A. McLean, father of Bruce and in charge of the Nootka Mission Hospital, was rescued after clinging 35 hours to a rock.

Meagre details of the tragedy were received late last night over the long distance telephone from Mrs. McLean, who is at the Nootka Mission Hospital. She contacted Mrs. Percy Wills, 1092 Cloverdale Avenue, whose husband is president of the hospital and is now somewhere off the West Coast aboard the mission ship Messenger III.

Mrs. McLean asked that her two children, Donald, 21, and Shirley, 19, who left the coast last week to attend Bible school in Three Hills, Alberta, be notified of the loss of their brother.

Later today Provincial Police reported that Messenger II had been wrecked on Tatchu Point, which is between Esperanza Inlet and Kyuquot Sound, while on a mercy mission. She piled up on high rocks and is a total loss.

The Provincial Police patrol boat P.M.L. 16, under command of F. Brookbank, has Dr. McLean aboard and is patrolling the shoreline, looking for the missing boy. Police and Indians are conducting a search on land.

The police report that Dr. McLean was picked up by the fish-packer Co-operator of Victoria after his terrifying ordeal.

Dr. McLean has been working for some years on the west coast and his two hospitals are affiliated with the Shantymen's Christian Association. He has made many dangerous trips in Messenger II, which was 32 feet long, to bring relief to sick and injured persons on the remote sections of the west coast.

The valiant west coast medical missionary clung to the rock for 35 hours after being washed overboard.

With his son, Bruce, he was returning from Kyuquot Sound when the boat developed engine trouble at 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

Four hours later a storm rocked the craft and drove it on the rocks.

Large waves washed away their dinghy and the anchor failed to hold.

The boat was driven against the rocks and Dr. McLean and the youth were swept overboard. The doctor managed to reach a large rock, but was unable to rescue his son.

Heavy seas continued to batter him. They washed completely over him at high tide and he tied himself to the rock with ropes so that he would not slip from his precarious perch.

Hazardous Trips Part Of Work

Recently Dr. McLean had another harrowing experience answering a hurried call with Messenger II. One of his nurses, Miss Hilda Richardson of Sooke went on deck and fell overboard when the boat lurched in a heavy sea. Some minutes later Dr. McLean sent his son on deck to see how Miss Richardson was and he returned with the word that she was missing.

Dr. McLean put about and found Miss Richardson sitting on a small rock. He was attracted by the pink sweater she had over her nurse's uniform. Miss Richardson is a strong swimmer and after she had fallen overboard swam for 25 minutes in the cold water of the west coast before she touched the rock.

Messenger II was the boat in which Percy Wills, Shantymen's missionary, conducted his work on the west coast for a number of years. Last year the Shantymen were able to finance the construction of a 49-foot mission ship and when it was commissioned the Messenger II was turned over to the Nootka Mission Hospital.

Efforts were made by radio Monday night to contact Messenger III. It left Port Renfrew Monday morning and was due at Bamfield that night, but owing to heavy weather suffered a delay and did not arrive until this morning. Word was communicated to the Messenger's crew and they proceeded at full speed immediately for Tatchu Point, a distance of about 100 miles, to render whatever assistance they could.

Huge Defence Sum

BELLINGHAM (AP)—The United States armed services intend to spend more than $400,000,000 in Washington States during the coming year for defence purposes, Senator Harry P. Cain said in an interview here today.

Heads Of 'Rebel' Logging Union Lock Themselves Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Leaders of the rebel Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada today locked themselves in their fifth-floor headquarters of a downtown office building, apparently to prevent service of a court injunction.

The temporary injunction was issued in supreme court yesterday to "freeze" all money, account books, property and assets of the "rebel" district council of the I.W.A. and was scheduled to be enforced today.

The order, issued by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady, restrains 41 named defendants from "disposing of, or dealing with moneys, assets, records, accounts and properties" of the I.W.A. district council. A hearing for extension of the injunction has been set for Friday.

Meanwhile I.W.A. international president James E. Fading announced today the I.W.A. was winning the battle for continued support of their union against the new-born Woodworkers Industrial Union.

Groups To Stay With I.W.A.

He said 20 New Westminster sub-locals, 5,100 strong, today affirmed their loyalty to the I.W.A. A group of Vancouver local members had decided to "stand fast," and have elected a new slate of temporary officers of the I.W.A.

Many other groups and sub-locals were preparing to reject the leftist W.I.U.C., he said.

A courtroom battle loomed on another Fading charge—that $100,000 has been spent by "the Communist-dominated B.C. council" and in no way has the council accounted for the way it spent it.

The council, dominated by L.P.P. figures Ernie Dalskog and Harold Pritchett, has filed a counter-claim against the international union, claiming $9,634 advanced to the I.W.A. for contract negotiations. Earlier Monday international officials had claimed $18,945 was unaccounted for in the B.C. council books.

Meanwhile throughout the province, locals of the big lumber union are to assemble to decide whether they will remain in the I.W.A. fold or follow the council into the new Woodworkers' Industrial union.

Dalskog, who was president of the strife-torn I.W.A. in B.C. and now head of the new organization, said he expected 20,000 of the 27,000 unionists to support him. There are 13,000 non-union loggers in the province. In 1946 they supported the B.C. union in a strike that almost crippled the industry.

International President Fading charged in a radio address Monday night that Nigel Morgan, the provincial L.P.P. President, had been advanced $510.13 from I.W.A. funds. Fading claimed no accounting for the advances could be found in council's records.

To date, the 5,000-strong New Westminster local, the 1,300-member Mission Local and the 1,000-strong Kamloops local have refused to follow the rebel district council.

Logging camp operators, "will have no choice" but to bargain with the I.W.A., with which they signed a 1948 master contract.

"THE MOMENT HAS ARRIVED . . ."

IN AN ADDRESS AS RICHLY ENDOWED with ideas as that presented by Mr. J. Belmont Mosser, president of Kiwanis International, to delegates to the service club's northwest district convention, much will claim attention and approval. To the majority of our citizens, moreover, his admonitions on the individual's responsibility to keep himself informed and active in public affairs is particularly apt. Said Mr. Mosser:

"The moment has arrived when every adult must devote a major portion of his time, effort and resources to public affairs if freedom is to be maintained. Only by shaking our apathetic attitude toward public affairs can we be certain that the ballot will remain sacred, that youth will have proper leadership, and that government will remain the servant of the people."

Mr. Mosser's words constitute a challenge to everyone on this continent. Be it a matter of wide international importance, or be it a more restricted question of local improvement, interest in public affairs is a cardinal requisite for a healthy community. The alternative is a state of lethargy in which the individual allows things to go by default, permits the erosion of the foundation on which his democratic rights are based, and finally is confronted either with impotence in the face of the strength others have usurped, or with a battle of varying proportions to win back the ground he has lost.

The story of appeasement in the days of Munich reflects, among other things, an international lethargy which robbed democratic countries temporarily of their strength and set the stage for the titanic showdown required to beat the aggressor. So, too, in the more restricted sphere of community activity, apathy leaves the way open for special interests to work their will on the majority.

The moment has arrived, as Mr. Mosser states, to put an end to that characteristic and to make the sacrifices that are necessary to see that we protect the worthwhile things bestowed upon us by earlier generations. It is a task which calls for expenditure of our resources, effort and time. It is not the easy course of "letting George do it." But it is the one way in which the individual can accept his responsibilities and pay something more than lip service to the ideals he cherishes.

AERONAUTIC TRAIL-BLAZER

AN INDICATION OF THE RAPID PACE at which the science of aeronautics is moving is recalled by the death yesterday of Sir Arthur Whitten-Brown at the age of 62. Less than 30 years ago, in the winter of 1919, he navigated a plane piloted by John William Alcock, also later knighted, in the first non-stop crossing of the Atlantic. The two fliers flew from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Clifden, Ireland, a distance of 1,890 miles, in 16 hours 12 minutes. Brown's companion was killed in an air crash in Normandy a week later.

It is a far cry from that adventurous over-water flight in a converted Vickers Vimy bomber—surplus equipment from the First Great War—to the present-day traffic of huge transports gridding the globe. But the spirit of discovery, of adventure in a comparatively new medium, has not died. Today speed has replaced distance as the main goal of scientific research. Jet and rocket aircraft, built to exceed the speed of sound, are the new frontier-crossers.

Such developments have been achieved in half of Brown's lifetime, a fact which he, who had taken part in the early experimental flights, must have found increasingly difficult to realize. Many a time he must have wished that Alcock, his partner in the famous flight, could have lived to see, and participate in, the progress of their chosen science. But no matter what may lie ahead, the name of that early team, "Alcock and Brown," has earned a place among the aeronautic trail-blazers.

CONSERVATION NEEDED

CONSERVATION OF LAND AND preservation of the balance of nature are problems that will be increasingly with us as the population grows and strains the resources of existing production areas, according to an expert in such matters. Dr. David Turner, the assistant director of Land Utilization Research and Survey, of the provincial Lands and Forests Department, warns in an interview: "There are no more land frontiers. We have reached the stage in development where we must depend upon better planning and management of our land if we are to increase our population and economy." Such a statement may come as a shock to those who held the idea that limitless areas of arable land still remained to be broken by the plow.

The fact is that we have not even retained for use much of the land that we had. Removal of forests has upset rainfall and drainage conditions, topsoil has been lost through erosion, "dust bowls" have been created, soil value has depreciated through too intensive cultivation. The productive soil of the globe, although covering a vast total area, has its limits; it is an asset that can be dissipated or injured through misuse. The situation, however, is one that can be met by proper management and utilization of the resources available.

Dr. Turner points out that a similar problem affects our wildlife, where man's interference has upset the balance of nature. Unwise draining of swamps, although it may add to arable soil areas, destroys nesting and feeding grounds for bird life. Destruction of forests removes the natural habitat of birds and animals. If man is not ultimately to live in a desert of his own creation he will have to allow for the needs of the creatures with which he shares the earth, for each species plays its part in the scheme of things. Such organizations as the Jack Miner Foundation, the Audubon Society and other groups do much to assist in the study and preservation of wild life. The encroaching march of civilization will make their efforts doubly necessary.

INVITING FIRES

IN CERTAIN PARTS OF BRITISH Columbia, where arsonists have temporarily established reigns of terror during the last year or two, investigations have disclosed bundles of kerosene-soaked rags and tinder placed in buildings to which fanatics intended to apply the torch. In some instances these sets have failed to ignite and the highly inflammable material has furnished mute testimony to the crimes that were planned.

It is easy to recognize in such evidence the product of a criminal mind. But relatively few of the fires which have taken lives and property in this province during 1947 were the products of intent. In a number of cases there were piles of tinder and the necessary spark or intense heat required to set it aflame. But accumulation of dry material was more often than not the result of carelessness, as was the spark or charge which set it afire. The outcomes were the same—property destroyed and lives lost or placed in jeopardy.

No person in his or her right mind would burn down another's house. Why should he or she create conditions which may lead to the destruction of his or her own? The question strikes home as Victoria, with other cities throughout the nation, observes Fire Prevention Week. The common cause of fires—smokers' carelessness, dirty chimneys, faulty wiring, cracked flues, overheated pipes and accumulated rubbish—are well known to virtually everyone. Yet invariably people, aware of faults in their own premises, invite disaster by neglecting to correct the conditions that can be rectified.

This is a form of apathy and carelessness which exacts too high a price. Particularly in this community, where overcrowding forces many families into congested and old premises, if it is a condition which cannot be tolerated. Fire prevention practices, of course, should be observed the year around. Since human nature is what it is, however, it is essential that citizens should be spurred at least during one week in the 52 to see that they do the things that have been left undone in the way of safeguarding their homes and themselves from unnecessary risks of fire.

GORBALS AND COMMUNISTS

IT WAS NOT SURPRISING THAT THE Socialist government of Britain won last week's by-election in the important Gorbals division of Glasgow. Nor was it surprising that the administration's majority was appreciably decreased. It would have been surprising, however, if the Conservative Party had breached this Labor stronghold and captured the seat.

To be sure, the government's traditional majority was substantially reduced—as it has been in several by-elections since the general appeal in the early summer of 1945. But the man who has represented this constituency in the House of Commons without interruption for two decades need not worry because his successor barely missed a plurality in a three-cornered contest. Indeed, last week's fight was most significant for the division of votes, and the fact that a woman headed the poll, since the result did not change the voting strength of parties in the House of Commons.

For example, Laborite Mrs. Cullen's total was 13,706 votes, Conservative Willis Roxburgh 7,181, and Communist Peter Kerrigan 4,223—an indication that neither the anti-Communist Labor government nor the Conservative official opposition can afford to ignore, by airy post-prandial dissertations, the leftist infiltration.

We are not suggesting that the results of by-elections in Great Britain are posing any special lines of thought for the Canadian electorate. But there are those in our midst who are "peddling" the Moscow philosophy in a manner that may not be readily detected by those of our people who still are old-fashioned enough to cling to a basic political faith.

DOING VERY WELL

CANADA'S JEREMIAHS WHO USE UP a good deal of time and breath trying to persuade the Canadian public that this country is on the downward path to economic and social ruin because there is still a Liberal government in office at Ottawa ought to read, for instance, official figures about employment and trade. These show that the number of people idle in the Dominion at present is fewer than at any seasonal time in the history of the country—based, of course, on population. They show also that the nation's sales to the outside world were worth $90,000,000 more in the first two-thirds of 1948 than in the corresponding period of last year. This means, in simple terms, that the more Canada sells to people other than her own nationals, the greater becomes the demand for the products of her farms and factories. Even the newly-chosen leader of the National Progressive Conservative Party will not attempt to challenge this basic argument.

Lawyer Candidate

Second of series by Canadian Press Correspondent Clyde Blackburn on U.S. presidential candidates and policies.

GOVERNOR THOMAS E. DEWEY of New York, Republican candidate for the second time in November's presidential election, might have made a million dollars in law. Instead he chose public service which paid little, but brought him fame as a politician. He was New York's racket-busting district attorney and has served two terms as governor of New York.

Dewey, suave and polished, is nearly five feet, eight inches tall but looks shorter. He dresses immaculately but quietly. His moustache now is known wherever pictures are printed. He is dark with arresting brown eyes, an engaging smile and wide spaced teeth which he does not like to have photographed.

HE WANTED the Republican nomination in 1940, but retired in the face of the Wendell Willkie landslide, and worked in Willkie's futile fight against Franklin D. Roosevelt. In 1944 there were plenty of old-guard candidates available at the Chicago convention, but Dewey won then, but went down to defeat by still-unbeatable Roosevelt.

Now he is again the Republican candidate, as a result of careful planning and organization on his part and his own personal determination to reach the White House.

His personal fortune probably is almost entirely wrapped up in his $30,000 farm near Pawling, New York, which he bought 11 years ago with a down payment of $3,000.

IN SPITE of the fact that Dewey has been in the big-salary class ($35,000) only since he became governor and in spite of the terrific demands such an office-holder must face in addition to high income taxes, he is proud of the fact that he paid off all the mortgage. "Dapplemore," his 300-acre Pawling farm, now is his. His predecessors as governor were millionaires.

Dewey was born March 24, 1902, in Owosso, Mich. His father was a small-town newspaper publisher. His mother was Ann Thomas of English and Canadian descent. He recalls with interest and pleasure the summers he spent as a small boy with his Aunt Eleanor Thomas in London, Ont.

AT THE University of Michigan, where Dewey got his arts degree, he was leader of the college glee club. He went to Columbia Law School in New York with ambitions divided between law and the concert stage.

He studied both, taking singing lessons at the Percy Rector Stevens music studio. There he met Frances Eileen Hutt of Sapula, Okla., who was well started on a musical career with engagements in a number of stage successes, including George White's "Scandals." He was admitted to the bar in 1926 and two years later he and Frances were married. They have two sons, Thomas, 15, and John, 12.

WITH FAMILY responsibilities, Dewey decided to restrict his singing to home duets with his pretty wife. He plunged into law as a career, but his private practice soon ended when he entered public legal service in New York city.

Dewey, like his chief opponent, President Truman, drinks very little, goes to church with fair regularity, and leads a happy family life. He is more reserved than Truman, nothing of a back-slapper or wise-cracker, but he is eloquent and precise in his public utterances.

If It Survives Paris

AS BACKGROUND FOR EVENTS NOW transpiring in Paris, the preview of the General Assembly of the United Nations furnished by Ferdinand Kuhn Jr. to the Washington Post on Sept. 19 makes interesting reading. Mr. Kuhn was not, of course, alone in predicting the critical character of the sessions which started shortly after publication of his article. There is, however, some significance in his analysis of the elements which contribute to the crisis. In his words:

"What makes the prospect so stormy is not the normal Assembly background of controversy, but the fact that the great powers seem determined to use this year's Assembly as an instrument in the Cold War. They appear ready to use it to the limit, with no holds barred."

HE AMPLIFIES HIS POINT AT THE conclusion of the article as follows:

"One cannot help feeling that each of the giant protagonists, the United States and the Soviet Union, is simply using the Assembly to score political and propaganda points off the other. From the American viewpoint, the Assembly will be a triumphal success if it outwits, discredits and humiliates the Soviet Union; from the Soviet viewpoint, the converse will, of course, be true."

"At this rate the Assembly will be fortunate if it is not torn apart by the pulling and hauling of its two most powerful members. If the Assembly can survive what is evidently in store for it in Paris, it can survive anything."

ON THE BASIS OF MR. KUHN'S opinion and forecasts—and early wrangles lend them substantial support—the outlook is not bright for the one great hope of humanity for an agency that might establish universal peace. What should not be forgotten, however, is that the United Nations still does represent the aspirations of virtually all who want to live decent, honorable lives in a world which is not tortured by the expressions of aggressive nationalisms and the inflammatory fever of expanding imperialism.

It is unfortunately true, on the other hand, that the United Nations cannot be united nations, pursuing together a path to better living, unless it is the will of members, particularly the strong ones, to make the organization work. Without that will, no plan of complete international co-operation can be effective.

Abreast Of The Times

BBC London Letter

THE TIMES newspaper is known the world over, even by people who have never seen a copy of Britain's most famous daily. Now a microfilm facsimile of every edition of The Times from 1785 to 1945 has just been completed, which means that libraries anywhere in the world can now buy 160 years of The Times, compressed into less than 1,000 rolls of film, each only a little larger than a match box. The roll has merely to be fitted into a reading machine, a knob twiddled to the day and page required and the newspaper appears life size.

William Clark, editorial director of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, talked about this tremendous job of work in the B.B.C.'s programme "Observation Post" and said, "I wonder if there is any British institution of the 19th century that is more worthwhile studying than The Times?"

WELL-INFORMED

"A newspaper of this sort, which had its own sources of manners and morals of the period. After the advertisements there were three solid pages of Parliamentary reports; there was a great debate going on as to whether income tax should be raised from three per cent. to five per cent., that is from seven pence to one shilling in the fl.

"Next were two pages about the revolution in Paris, very well reported and full of the most vivid detail. But I was struck by the fact that though this was the revolution which was so soon to catapult Louis Napoleon to power, the only mention of him was an advertisement where he gave a plug for Mr. Eisenberg's methods of removing corns and warts!"

DAILY DIARY

"That is why newspapers are so good for historians to read. A newspaper hurriedly written each night is the only honest record of what people really thought at the time. The 19th century Times is the daily diary of the most powerful middle class the world has ever seen."

Reading Between The Lines

Baltic Review Newsletter.

EXTENSIVE fortifications in the Baltic area have made the population believe that a war between East and West is imminent and this belief is reflected even in the few letters from home that have reached Baltic nationals in free Europe. Needless to say, their correspondents in Estonia have had to veil their thoughts in innocent language because of the censor, but much can be read between the lines.

VEILED WARNING

In order to be sure that the letters will not be destroyed by the censor, the writers often ask their relatives in exile to return. But they also add veiled warnings. A letter sent to Germany says: "Pack your things and come home from those starvation camps but do not on any condition leave Uncle Harry behind." The receiver has no uncle of that name and is sure that President Truman is meant. A young Estonian received a letter from his relative inviting him to return and assuring him that his job with N.N. is waiting for him. However, the recipient knew that N.N. was murdered by the N.K.V.D. in the summer of 1941.

Pitiful is the letter of an old woman from Western Estonia. She enumerates the relatives and friends—mostly men—who have died in the meantime and adds for their commemoration: Neh. 9: 36, 37. Opening the Bible we read:

IN GREAT DISTRESS

Behold, we are servants this day and for the land that thou gavest our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it; and it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou has set over us because of our sins; also they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

NEVER WAVED

Dr. Eduard Benes led his country in the way of democracy. In the face of disillusionment and apparent betrayal he was faithful to a belief and never wavered in the generous road he had chosen. Andrei Zhdanov also followed an unwavering road, but there were few to mourn him. He had a great funeral in the Red Square in Moscow. All the Politburo, the power of Russia, was there. Foreign Minister Molotov, now the undoubted second man in Moscow, delivered the oration while Marshal Stalin looked on approvingly. But neither of them mourned. Molotov feared the little zealot who stood ahead of him in the confidence of the party. Stalin, once his friend, had seen him outlast his usefulness. The Cominform, the instrument of Zhdanov's devising, had brought a rift among the satellites and had permitted the little despots like Tito to strut and posture and defy the all-powerful Soviet Union.

MOURNING?

Nobody liked that. So the rumor will not down that the mourning of Molotov and Stalin had a dubious sound. You don't mourn those you fear. Zhdanov induced fear. He was the confident and vocal champion of the irrepressible conflict between west and east. He was the driving force

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

THE long-suffering United Nations Security Council yesterday heard an argument to end all arguments when Soviet delegate Vishinsky took the floor and, with a perfectly straight face, declared that there is no Soviet blockade of Berlin.

A few members of the council smiled wryly at the audacity of this claim. He was pursuing typical Communist tactics. Vishinsky was, of course, fighting to keep the Security Council from consideration of the charges by the western powers that the blockade is a menace to world peace. He declared the demand for U.N. consideration of the dispute was groundless; "as it does not fall within the scope of the Security Council." So in order to clinch his argument he coolly caused the blockade to vanish with a wave of his hand.

ASTONISHING PROPOSAL

He argued that the issue should be sent to the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers. This in its turn was another astonishing proposal, in view of the fact that the Council of Foreign Ministers has long been rendered impotent by Soviet obstruction. Obviously the Russians are stalling for time.

Well, it's easy to understand the anxiety of the Russians to keep the U.N. from passing judgment on the charge of aggression. They have no intention of abandoning their cold war, but they can have no desire to be branded as aggressors by a majority of the world's powers. Russia was booted out of the League of Nations in 1939 for aggression against little Finland, and it didn't boost her stock any.

So Vishinsky fought to escape the ignominy of this brand, and the United States battled with equal vigor to get a council hearing of the charges.

WALKOUT POSSIBILITY

Of course, there is the possibility that Russia and her satellites would walk out of the U.N. if the Soviet Union were branded as an aggressor, though the Reds would be loath to abandon an organization which is so useful to them.

There are many observers who feel that a split in the U.N. might be a good thing. The democracies would at least get a chance to do some constructive work, whereas thus far the Russians have hamstringed the peace organization, while using it as a propaganda sounding-board for themselves.

But, says someone, that means "two worlds" instead of one. The answer to this is that irrespective of the U.N., we already have two worlds—the Communist bloc and the democratic bloc. Communism and democracy never can be welded into "one world."

They just don't mix, and the U.N. can't make them mix.

SWEET REMINDER

London (Ont.) Free Press) The essence of education is that the educated person shall be able to get along with other people and live in harmony with others. Passing examinations and the acquisition of degrees do not assure this capacity.

Graduates are not, of course, dumbbells; they are smart young people with a goal in view and their feet set on the path of progress. But there is no harm in reminding them that after all they will have to earn their living from among the ranks of other people, and that tact and sweet reasonableness are two of the essentials of success.

BY MAIL ORDER

Edmonton Journal) Nothing would smash Communism quicker than a barrage of mail order catalogues dropped on Russia.

This sentiment was expressed some time ago by an American diplomat whose words were taken more or less facetiously. So long as a large part of the world's people is ignorant of the way of life of its neighbors, no true comparison can be drawn. What better way is there to examine the roots of democratic economy than through the pages of the farmer's manual, the mail order catalogue?

One small problem remains. How to get the catalogues into the Soviet Union!

First Round Of Presidential Campaign Over; Dewey Calm

WASHINGTON (CP) — Main contenders in the presidential fight were back in their corners today after the first round, which gave little indication of the outcome.

President Truman is at work here again following a 15-day west coast swing during which he traveled more than 8,000 miles and made about 150 speeches. He was as jaunty and confident on his homecoming as when he started, and his personal physician, Dr. Wallace Graham, said he was in better health than when he left.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Republican candidate, came back from a similar tour which criss-crossed the President's path, confident that he had strengthened the support he needs to win control of Congress and the White House for his party next Nov. 2.

Throughout the first round of this exceptionally intense campaign Dewey seemed to be playing the role of a calm and confident champion—more like Roosevelt in his record-breaking series of four successive presidential victories.

Truman's role seemed to be that of the challenger out to shatter the entrenched forces of the ruling authority.

This is not unnatural because for two years the Republicans have been in control of Congress and Truman has been thwarted over and over in his attempts to administer without legislative support.

Thus Dewey was able to speak always from the lofty heights of a candidate who looks upon his opposition more in pity than in anger, an attitude that has been maddening to the Democrats.

Truman came out fighting mad in a spirit of "Give 'em hell" and "Mow 'em down"—his own words at the start of his western trip—and he pounded away at the Republican Congress in that mood throughout.

He named names and cast off all restraint in his efforts to discredit and damn the Republican Party. Dewey quietly admitted both parties had made great contributions in the past and could in the future, and he preached unity and efficiency in office, seldom naming anyone.

Dewey not only kept himself informed but commented on the play of events in Europe and perhaps his most significant utterances were when he gave notice to the world that the election would not split the ranks of Americans in their dealing with foreign aggression.

Truman had the same machinery for keeping in touch with the nerve centres of the world, but it seemed, on the surface, that for the moment he was concerned only with his immediate task of winning votes.

Probe Of British Press Nears End; Had Widest Scope

LONDON (Reuter)—The government's Royal Commission of inquiry into the country's press is nearing its end and a final report is expected early in 1949.

The commission has been a subject of parliamentary and public controversy since the idea was first advanced two years ago. During the last 18 months it has heard testimony from scores of individuals and organizations, representing all aspects of British newspaper work in its investigation of "the finance, control, management and ownership of the press."

Senn Denies He Will Resign Seat

OTTAWA (CP)—B. L. Edgcombe, president of the Haldimand Progressive Conservative Association, Monday denied suggestions that Haldimand's member of Parliament, Mark C. Senn, might resign in favor of the new Progressive Conservative leader, Mr. Drew. The Haldimand seat is near Toronto.

Soon after Mr. Drew's election Saturday as party leader, some party members said they thought the Haldimand seat might be made available to Mr. Drew. Their speculation was based on the fact that Mr. Senn, 70, has been in ill-health.

The seat has been Conservative since 1904. Mr. Senn has been the member since 1921.

Patrons Queuing Up At Halifax Taverns

HALIFAX (CP)—Barkeepers in this old port's first and only pub are going to start calling: "Time Gentlemen, Please," at 6 p.m. instead of 11 p.m. until more taverns are open.

A government announcement said the move was made "because of the congestion in the evenings that has been experienced there."

The first tavern has been jam-packed nightly, with queues waiting for standing space. The crowding has evoked newspaper editorial condemnation.

Other taverns are not expected to open until late November or early December.

Hits High Costs

A suggested change in the motto of Kiwanis International was brought forward at the opening session of the 31st annual Pacific Northwest Kiwanis convention here Monday.

But it was not a convention delegate who brought the matter up, nor was it even a Kiwanis member. It was N. F. "Dick" Pullen, of Vancouver, a member in good standing of Gyro International.

In an entertaining address to the convention, Mr. Pullen noted the Kiwanis motto had been changed some time ago from "We Trade" to "We Build" because the former was thought to be too materialistic.

"In these times of high building costs, I suggest you change your motto again from 'We Build' to 'How Can We Build,'" he said.

Appeal of Percy H. McMillan, convicted at Vancouver on charges of theft and breaking and entering and sentenced to two years and three months, to run concurrently, was dismissed in Court of Appeal, today.

Costly Fires Can Be Prevented

Rigid Inspection Today May Prevent Big Fire Tomorrow

Fire department officers offer these ideas during Fire Prevention Week:

1. All dwellings, public buildings, stores, warehouses and factories be carefully inspected by their occupants and conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fire removed.

2. All theatres, hotels, hospitals and other institutional buildings be inspected and provisions made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants in case of fire.

3. Fire drills be held for all children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions, and for the employees of all factories, in order that a greater degree of safety be ensured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

4. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by the municipal officials in the schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

5. Federal, provincial and municipal authorities endeavor, by means of public meetings, the press, radio broadcasts, specially prepared motion pictures or otherwise as may to them see fit, to impress upon the citizens the national importance of protecting life and property from loss by fire.

Big San Francisco Bank Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board announced Monday it will hold public hearings here Oct. 12 on anti-trust charges against the Trans-American Corporation of San Francisco, the nation's biggest bank holding company.

The announcement—the first official disclosure of the case by the Reserve Board—said that Transamerica itself had requested that the hearing be held public. Headed by A. P. Giannini of the widely known California banking family, Transamerica has an interest in over 500 banks and industrial concerns in five western states.

To Edmonton Conference

Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman, and J. C. MacDonald, member of the Public Utilities Commission, will leave Victoria today for Edmonton to attend the two-day conference of highway traffic boards of the four western provinces.

People Killed And Injured Regularly By Carelessness

Following is text of a Fire Prevention Week announcement of Fire Chief Robert Brindle:

Once again it is my duty to bring to the attention of the citizens of Victoria the purpose behind observance of an annual "Fire Prevention Week."

Because there is so much needless waste from fires throughout this country of ours, and worse still, valuable lives are lost and suffering caused which is unnecessary and criminal.

Fire prevention, like charity, begins at home. Carelessness, which the records prove, is the largest contributing cause to the alarming loss of life and property, is a habit capable of correction.

Fire prevention and fire safety are, after all, pretty much of a frame of mind: that is, the way you look at things. If you know about the things that cause fires and pay constant attention to them, you are not apt to have a fire. If you don't know, or don't care—well, the answer is—more fatalities and more fires.

Fire Prevention Week is a week set aside yearly to arouse your consciousness of fire hazards. To be effective, it must be kept in mind, not only during this week, but each and every day throughout the year.

LIST OF DON'TS

Please take note of the following information, which will be of help to you.

DON'T leave matches around within reach of small children. Teach them the danger of unfriendly fires.

DON'T overload your electric wiring circuits by plugging in more appliances than the line is built to carry. Use the proper capacity fuses; namely 15 amperes for ordinary house circuits, and never have any electrical work done except by a qualified electrician.

DON'T allow your chimneys to get choked up with soot or creosote. Have chimneys cleaned by a competent sweep at least once each year.

DON'T presume your furnace and smoke pipe from same are still in good condition. Check them for defects or have a good furnace man do so. If you have an oil-burning furnace or oil-burning range or heaters, have these overhauled by a qualified service man regularly.

DON'T stack rubbish or trash so close to the furnace or stove, that they can hardly help but catch fire. Get a permit from the Fire Department and burn rubbish and trash outside in a clear space.

DON'T dump ashes into wooden or cardboard boxes, or dump them outside against a building or fence. People do these things sometimes, you know, and a fire surely follows. Get yourself a good ash can or cans.

DON'T keep or use gasoline or other volatile liquids around your house or home. Some people have done so, to their sorrow. Gasoline fumes have been known to be touched off by open flames 200 feet away. Some people have also used gasoline or coal oil to hasten a slow fire. Fatal and disastrous results have been the result of this practice.

Calling the Fire Department and the subject of fire prevention, may seem at variance, but such is not the case. Every fire has its incipient stage at which time it is easily extinguished—so don't delay calling your Fire Department.

When telephoning an alarm of fire, dial the number G 1122 carefully and give the operator your message slowly and distinctly. Have him repeat this to you to avoid any mistake. If a telephone is not available, pull the nearest fire alarm box and wait till the firemen arrive, then direct them to the location of the fire. Of course, you had already noticed where the nearest fire alarm box was and had mentally catalogued it for future use if necessary.

Plan Full-Scale Fire Drills At All Naval Establishments

Naval Fire Chief J. D. Crowther and his staff of officers and men will be working their gleaming crimson fire-trucks overtime during the nation-wide Fire Prevention Week.

During the week, the Pacific Command Naval Fire Service (civilian)—maintaining fire stations at H.M.C.S. Naden, H.M.C. Dockyard, the Canadian Services College H.M.C.S. Royal Roads, and the Naval Armament Depot at Kamloops—will carry out a full schedule of evacuation drills, inspections, actual demonstrations of first-aid appliances, and lectures on fire prevention and fire-fighting which will reach all personnel of every ship and building in the above-mentioned establishments.

Prime importance of this work is revealed in an official proclamation issued by the Dominion government which states that,

I.W.A. Here To Vote Thursday On Break

The 1,000-member Victoria Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America (C.C.L.C.), will vote by secret ballot Thursday night on whether they wish to stay with the I.W.A. or join the newly-announced Woodworkers' Industrial Union of Canada.

Officials of the local here said that the question would be left up to the membership. The executive of the local will meet tonight to discuss the question. "We're going to let the members speak for themselves," said one official of the Victoria local.

Formation of the new union, designed to absorb the total 27,000 membership of the I.W.A. in British Columbia, was announced Sunday night following a vote by the B.C. district council of the I.W.A.

Ice Cream Increase

Ice cream prices are up in most city dairies and confectioneries this week following an increase in the wholesale price last Friday.

Cones' dixie cups and chocolate-coated ice cream bars have jumped from 5 cents to 6 and bars with nuts in them have risen to 7.

Ice cream bricks, which previously sold for 26 cents, are now 30.

While milk shake prices have not changed, it seems not as much ice cream is being used to make them.

Wednesday Set For Trial Of Wiegner At Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Slight, bespectacled Gustav Wiegner will go on trial here Wednesday.

The 24-year-old Dayton, Ohio, salesman is charged with murder in the death Aug. 9 of fellow townsman John McComas on an Alaska Highway hunting trip.

Wiegner, who conducted his own case in the preliminary hearing at Pouce Coupe Sept. 7, said he had accidentally shot 52-year-old McComas when the pair, along with McComas' 13-year-old daughter, Louise, were hunting en route to Alaska.

The accused man made the six-mile trip from the Prince George airport to the jail early Sunday in an automobile guided by a police inspector's torch. Lights on the vehicle failed while they were traveling the lonely road to the prison.

Wiegner, sitting in the back seat with his attorney, offered suggestions for their repair.

Louise McComas, with whom Wiegner returned to the United States after the shooting, arrived here from Pouce Coupe Monday.

At the preliminary hearing she testified Wiegner had tied a rope around her wrist, made her remove her sweater, and kissed her after the shooting.

"But he didn't force any improper conduct on me," she said.

She testified Wiegner had told her of killing her father, but had said it was accidental.

Wiegner at the preliminary hearing moved for dismissal of the charge on grounds of lack of evidence.

"I didn't commit any crime and I have profited nothing from the episode, nor will I gain anything in the future," he told the court.

Call Applications For Shipments Of Imported Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—The Prices Board announced Monday that arrangements were being made for the first distribution of imported butter to areas where there is a shortage of Canadian butter.

The government announced Sept. 24 it had arranged to import 15,000,000 pounds—11,000,000 from Denmark and 2,000,000 each from Australia and New Zealand.

The board said wholesalers in areas where there is a shortage now may apply for imported supplies. The first shipment is expected to arrive in Montreal during the last half of October. It will be followed by shipments to other ports on both coasts.

Uranium Reported Near Bering Sea

NOME, Alaska (AP)—Louis C. Stringer, a veteran prospector, announced Monday the discovery of pitchblende, a source of atomic power, in northwestern Alaska just across Bering Sea from Siberia.

Stringer, whose home is in Newark, N. J., said Geiger counts of the mineral and tests in New Jersey laboratories were "exceptionally high."

He said the deposits, located less than 100 miles from Nome, were "considerable." He did not estimate their size.

(Pitchblende is a source of uranium, the basic mineral used in generating atomic energy.)

Stringer also said he had discovered tungsten and cobalt in the Nome area during the summer, and had investigated deposits of high grade anthracite coal in the Cape Lisburne area, 386 miles by water from Nome.

COMING HERE—Thomas Grant Major, Canadian government trade commissioner at Port of Spain, Trinidad, will meet Vancouver Island manufacturers and exporters here Friday to discuss trade between B.C. and Trinidad and area. He will make his headquarters while here at the provincial trade and industry department.

Firm Stand Advocated For Democratic Nations

REGINA (CP)—A firm stand by democratic countries in the face of provocation was advocated here by Sir Alexander Cluttbuck, British High Commissioner to Canada.

Addressing a service club Monday, Sir Alexander predicted such a stand would be taken by Great Britain and "we feel sure it will be accepted not only by Canadians but by free people everywhere."

Brackets, Towns Compared In Lists On Income Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Prince Edward Island town of Summerside, with $2,292, had the highest average income reported in tax returns from 51 selected municipalities in 1946.

Doctors, with an average income of $7,466, did better financially than did any other group.

Canadians making less than $2,200 a year accumulated more than half the gross income reported by individual taxpayers in that year.

It cost the federal government $19,628,000—a record, and 50 per cent higher than the previous year—to collect total tax revenues of $1,317,706,000 in the 1947-48 fiscal year.

The taxation division of the Revenue Department disclosed these and masses of other figures Monday with publication of the third annual edition of its "green book," officially known as "Taxation Statistics."

It is loaded with answers to Canadians' left-estates of $1,000,000 or more, how many taxpayers there are, which industry had the highest taxable profits, what the years are doing to tax revenues.

PAYERS TOTALED 2,353,122

It shows that 2,353,122 Canadians paid tax in 1946 on a total gross income of $4,810,400,000, and 52 per cent of them made less than $2,200. Of the total individual income tax of $647,700,000 that came out of the gross, 51 per cent came from people making less than $3,500 a year.

Married men, with an average income of $2,514 and an average tax of $336, paid 68 per cent of the individual taxes.

The $1,317,706,000 total tax revenue was $118,000,000 below that of the previous fiscal year. Individual income tax collections were $656,000,000—$35,000,000 below the previous year.

Behind the doctors as high earners came lawyers, with an average of $6,528; engineers and architects, with $5,984, and dentists, with $5,289. Farmers averaged $2,118, authors and writers $3,122, salesmen $5,467.

Behind Summerside came Lethbridge, with an average income of $2,200 for its 5,332 taxpayers. Calgary was in 20th place among the highest-average income cities with $2,050.

MacDonald Urges Revision Of Federal Taxes On Mines

Mines Minister MacDonald Monday night called on the federal government to revise its mine taxation policy to take into consideration the uncertainty of mining undertakings.

In a radio address over C.B.R. Mr. MacDonald said the mining industry of British Columbia submitted the federal government has not fully appreciated the difference between the mining industry and other kinds of industrial activity on which the economic and social structure of the country depends.

"This conclusion is inescapable if one bears in mind the fact that the taxation policy of the Dominion does not fully recognize the economic gamble in which mining must first engage to establish the necessary machinery, supply and other capital costs before it reaches the state of output," he said.

"I believe the mining industry of this province could be even more vigorous and no doubt much larger if it were carried on under a federal taxation policy which would definitely encourage capital investment by giving income tax exemption or some other effectual taxation relief to mining enterprises until such time at least as they have regained their capital investment from production. The reason for this suggested relief for the mining industry is on account of the uncertainty of the undertaking."

17,500 PROPERTIES

To show the widely scattered character of the mineralization of B.C. and to suggest the magnitude of the task of exploration, Mr. MacDonald said mines department records showed 17,500 properties registered in B.C. He said the mining industry of the province from crown colony days has done more to attract people and capital to B.C. than has the development of any other natural resource. The Fraser River and Cariboo gold rushes, he said, were an important factor in the extending of the Canadian Pacific Railway to B.C. in 1886.

In 1947, he said, the gross production of B.C. mines was $112,000,000, an all-time record. Of this sum $20,000,000 was paid in taxes, $4,000,000 going to the province and $16,000,000 to the federal government.

The industry in 1947, he continued, paid $32,000,000 in wages and salaries, $25,000,000 for workmen's compensation, silicosis and unemployment insurance, $28,000,000 in dividends and the remaining $4,000,000 for prospecting, other services and amortization of plant.

$500,000,000 TURNOVER

"This $112,000,000 of new wealth produced by the mines of British Columbia in 1947 creates a business turnover of the value of about $500,000,000," he said.

"You may have no direct interest in mines, you may not own mining stock, but every person in British Columbia benefits directly or indirectly from the mining industry. A dollar of this new wealth may pass through many hands before it reaches yours but sooner or later some part of it will find its way into your pocket, no matter what your work, business or profession may be."

The provincial government, he said, and the mining industry were working together and working with the other provinces and the Dominion, to ensure the future of this industry which is so important to this province and to all of Canada.

PARKSVILLE — Rev. G. A. Bagshaw gave the early history of St. Anne's Parish, including highlights of Parksville and French Creek, in a talk to the St. Anne's Anglican Church Women's Auxiliary.

In 1893, the year St. Anne's Church was planned, the three main buildings at Parksville included a tiny red schoolhouse, a wayside hotel called the "Old Saloon," situated about a mile towards Englishman River, and a log store a quarter of a mile south of the school, Mr. Bagshaw said.

He told of church services being held in the schoolhouse with the congregation arriving by ox team in many cases and carrying their rifles along, prior to the building of the church at French Creek.

Marion May Mitchell, Married On Parents' 27th Anniversary

Choosing the wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mitchell, 3935 Winton Street, who were married in Cirencester Cathedral, Gloucestershire, England, 27 years ago, for her own wedding day, Miss Marion May Mitchell repeated nuptial vows with John Edward "Jack" Gowan, at St. Barnabas Church, Monday evening.

Chrysanthemums and Mimosas daisies decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. E. Munn.

The bride's veil of illusion net misted into a full train from a seed pearl circlet trimmed with orange blossoms.

Rosettes of embossed satin graced the bouffant skirt of her white slipper satin gown, styled with long sleeves pointed over the wrists and fitted bodice buttoned down the back. She wore her groom's gifts, a necklace of pearls with earrings to match, and carried white chrysanthemums, pink rosebuds and maiden hair fern in a loose colonial bouquet.

Full skirts of the gleaming satin gowns worn by attendants, were gathered at the back to form pert bustles. Miss Joan Mitchell, her sister's honor maid, was in seafoam green, and Miss Gladys Wallace, in bronze. Their crescent bouquets of carnations matched the blossoms in their hair.

The groom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Gowan, Winnipeg, was assisted by Bob Kroeger as best man, R. Mitchell and Bill O'Keefe seated guests.

A four-tier wedding cake, topped with twin hearts and doves, was cut in traditional manner by the newlyweds at a reception at Terry's Rose Room. Toast to the couple was given by J. Burrough, while Bob Kroeger proposed the toast to the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gowan will make their home at 3937 Winton Street, on their return from Vancouver and Seattle.

With her bride's blue suit, styled on dressmaker lines, Mrs. Gowan chose a wine gabardine topcoat, black suede accessories and an orchid en corsage.

Personal Notes

Mrs. Kate Aitken On CBR Program

There's no such thing as a "born cook" according to Kate Aitken.

She contends that cooking is an exact science, like preparing a chemical formula.

Mrs. Aitken, who will be interviewed on Canadian Cavalcade, tonight at 5.30 over CBR, says women would have few cooking troubles if they would measure their ingredients exactly and always bear in mind that a teaspoon of baking powder always raises a half-cup of flour.

Mrs. Aitken is known as a human dynamo who can do six jobs at once, who can inspire audiences with a sentence and who can send her friends to bed with a case of fatigue they've borrowed from just watching her work for half an hour.

Her interest in the kitchen goes back to early childhood when she spent hours in the family home at Beeton, Ontario, watching her mother cut up gingerbread men for a large family. At one time Mrs. Aitken ran a 26-acre farm, raising White Wyandottes. She won two world records for high egg production and also launched a home canning enterprise which gave employment to 13 women.

In addition to being women's editor of a national Canadian weekly magazine, Mrs. Aitken is director of women's activities for the Canadian National Exhibition, does a daily morning broadcast on women's affairs and has just launched a new national network program for a flour company.

Journey In Northland, Find Unknown Indian Tribe, Travel Lakes On Scow

Tanned with sun, winds and in the last days of their adventure, from snow; finely drawn from days and nights spent on the trail and in camp in British Columbia's far north, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walker are still keenly enthusiastic over the almost unknown country they have explored in a two-month trek, in which they covered some 800 miles.

Primarily the expedition was organized in hope of discovering a game country where, as Mr. Walker put it, "There is still room for real sportsmen to make a bag," and where he might establish a camping lodge for these hunters.

They discovered the game country, also the spot for their camp, and at the same time experienced so many new adventures they could easily write a book.

Until early this year Mr. and Mrs. Walker owned and operated Tweedsmuir Lodge, a huntsman's rendezvous at the head of Bella Coola Valley.

They sold it in late spring and, footloose for the first time in some years, decided to go exploring.

A friend, Col. Ten Broek, who is well known in Victoria, accompanied them.

With two Indians and a string of 17 packhorses they set out from Tweedsmuir Lodge in May. USE OLD TRAIL

Traveling first to Anahim Lake, then through the Blackwater country, they followed approximately the old Alexander Mackenzie trail north to Vanderhoof.

"We only saw two white families in the whole Blackwater country," Mr. Walker said, "all the others were forced out through flood conditions and had not returned."

From Vanderhoof the expedition moved north to Fort St. James and from there were transported on scows north again to Bulkley House.

The Walkers look at each other and laugh when they speak of those scows.

"There were two of them," Mr. Walker explains, "one for the horses, which were placed aboard, head to tail, packed tightly like sardines. The other, rigged up with sleeping bunks on either side and a cook house at the rear, all covered with a leaky tarpaulin, for the 14 passengers."

"I was the only woman aboard," Mrs. Walker adds.

In a vivid word picture, they both describe the passage up the lakes.

"When our pilot was hungry, we ate," they say. He'd get out a big iron pot, look along his supply of canned goods, pick out soups, meats, vegetables, anything he might fancy, and put it in the pot. When it was hot, none of us knew quite what to call it, but we ate it anyway."

A storm added to the excitement, with the scows pitching and tossing wildly.

"The pilot calmly told us that in all the years he had been running the lakes he had never lost a scow," Mrs. Walker says, "but nevertheless, we were very glad when the trip was over."

DRIFTWOOD VALLEY

Next, came a month's trek through Driftwood Valley, famous in story, and the Omineca country.

It was a Metsantan Lake, just beyond Driftwood Valley, that the party discovered the Caribou Hide Indians.

"Perhaps we should say they discovered us," Mrs. Walker says, with a laugh, "for the Chief had a pair of binoculars, with which he evidently had watched us coming along the trail."

"He came to meet us, bringing several members of his tribe with him."

"It was my wife they were interested in," Mr. Walker adds, "the Chief telling us she was the first 'white lady' they had ever seen in real life."

Describing the tribe, Mr. Walker says there are only 39 of these Indians left.

"They speak almost perfect English," he commented, "learned through a Britisher who spent some years with the tribe."

"They know all about the outside world through magazines and catalogues they have seen."

"For instance, my wife's elder-down jacket was a source of much interest. They had seen pictures of these jackets and they were seeing the real thing for the first time so Mrs. Walker was often surrounded by an admiring throng of men, women and children."

The black Labrador retriever, Kip, was also much admired, Mr. Walker says, as he was the first dog they had ever seen loose around camp and the first one their children had ever been able to fondle and pet.

North again from Metsantan Lake, the Walker party followed the old Ingenika mine trail, across the Stikine to the Spatsize River and then to Coldfish Lake,

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walker, who are at present the guests of Mrs. Walker's mother and sister, Mrs. W. H. Bullock-Webster and Miss Barbara Bullock-Webster, Foul Bay Road, have just completed an adventurous trip into British Columbia's northland. Their black Labrador, Kip, accompanied them and "covered twice the number of miles we did in his ranging back and forth." Kip swam all rivers except one without help.—Photo by Bill Halkett.

where they set up a permanent camp.

It was the end of July, a little more than a month from the time they left the head of Bella Coola Valley.

At Coldfish Lake the Walkers plan to have a hunting camp, and when they start to talk about the country round about, words and sentences collide and overlap, they are so enthusiastic.

"There's endless feed for the horses," Mr. Walker tells us, "lush meadows that stretch ahead of one for hours. There are silvery-tipped grizzlies, mountain goat and sheep, moose and caribou, all the game a sportsman will want."

"You should see the flowers," Mrs. Walker adds, "delphiniums, monkshood, asters, larger than any cultivated varieties and far more brilliant in color."

"Berries, too," she says, "we ate huckleberries as big as small cherries."

The eating problem was in Mrs. Walker's hands.

She did all the cooking for the expedition. A hot meal every night after camp was made, with enough left over to be eaten cold for lunch next day, as they traveled.

She also baked eight loaves of bread twice a week, right out in the open using a reflector and grill beside the campfire.

Most of August and September the Walkers spent at Coldfish Lake. Then, with snow flying, they closed down for the winter, and brought their pack-train back to the Caribou Hide Indian village in five days.

FLEW OUT

Leaving the horses there for the winter, the party flew out from Fort St. James with Russ Baker, famed northland bush pilot.

"Took us two hours to cover the distance we had taken over a month to do on horseback going in," they tell us.

"The whole Indian village was on the lake shore to see us off," Mrs. Walker concludes.

"In their bright colored clothes, against the autumn colors of the trees, it was one of the most colorful scenes of the whole trip."

A scene they have captured in color, for Mr. Walker's hobby is color photography and he has brought back a number of rolls of film to substantiate the stories he has to tell.

"We're going back as soon as it opens up in spring," they say. After all, we've got a big stake in our new camp. If you know of any hunting parties . . . ?"

'Carmen' Vivid Story At Dominion

"Carmen" is the vivid story of an uninhibited gypsy girl who loved unwisely and too often. Produced in Italy, with a French cast, the film has an honesty that distinguishes the best French films.

From Prosper Merimee's story, from which the opera sprang, the photography is wonderful, its background score, a subdued rendition of Bizet music—there is no singing—is fitted to the mood of the action admirably. The French picture which was produced in Rome, France and Spain, is almost consistently photographed against rugged backgrounds—the mountainous back country, the caves and huts of the gypsies, the tenements of the Spanish towns, and the bull ring.

Brown plays his first dramatic role on the screen. The preview turned out to be a very happy event, for the critics were unanimous in heralding Brown's triumph and the opening of a new field of film acting for the versatile star of the 20th Century-Fox release, now at the Atlas Theatre.

High Commissioner For U.K. To Pay 3-Day Visit Here

ALEXANDER CLUTTERBUCK

A three-day visit to Victoria and meetings with the Chamber of Commerce, Canadian Club and United Services Institution of Vancouver Island will be made Oct. 15, 16 and 17 by Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada.

Sir Alexander and Lady Clutterbuck left Ottawa last Thursday on a tour of western Canada during which Sir Alexander will fulfill a number of speaking engagements.

They are accompanied by their daughter, Miss Anne Clutterbuck, Miss Hilary Stransom and J. K. Batey of the U.K. High Commissioner's office.

Sir Alexander and his party will arrive in Victoria on the morning of Oct. 15. His first meeting will be a joint luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce and Canadian Club on the same day. In the evening, he will attend a dinner meeting of the United Services Institution.

LEAVES CITY OCT. 17

On Oct. 16, he will visit Fairbridge Farm at Duncan, returning to Victoria to take the mid-night boat back to the mainland on the night of Oct. 17.

Born in 1897, the eldest son of Sir Peter Clutterbuck, late Inspector General of Forests, India and Burma, Sir Alexander was educated in England and attended Cambridge. He served in World War I with the Coldstream Guards, became a captain in 1917 and won the M.C. and was mentioned in dispatches in 1918.

He entered the civil service in 1919, serving in the Colonial Office until 1928 when he was appointed to the Dominions Office where he held various appointments up to 1939 when he was appointed deputy high commissioner for the U.K. in South Africa.

He returned to London in 1940 to take charge of the department of the Dominions Office dealing with the economic and financial side of the war effort. In 1942 he was appointed assistant under-secretary of state for Dominion Affairs and visited Canada and Newfoundland with Clement Attlee, then deputy prime minister. He assumed duty as U.K. High Commissioner in Canada May 29, 1946, in succession to the Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald.

OAK BAY THEATRE

That celebrated record-smashing comedy-romance, "The Voice of the Turtle," which Warner Bros. have transferred to the screen with Ronald Reagan and Eleanor Parker in the leads, is currently at the Oak Bay Theatre, in that exclusive class of Broadway's celebrated long-run hits. The play opened Dec. 8, 1943, at the Morosco Theatre in New York, and has since won international acclaim as one of the greatest romantic comedies of all times.

RIO THEATRE

Twenty-five miles from civilization on a deserted spot in the Navajo Indian Reservation outside of Flagstaff, Arizona, was considered by Edmund Grainger to be a logical spot to film a hide-away sequence in "The Fabulous Texan," now at the Rio Theatre. But ensuing events proved him wrong.

Before the company broke for lunch on the first day of shooting, the Republic troupe starring William Elliott, Catherine McLeod and John Carroll, found themselves playing to an audience of Navajo Indians.

ODEON THEATRE

Headed by a cast of superlative players, including Paulette Goddard, Henry Fonda, Jimmy Stewart, Fred MacMurray, Dorothy Lamour and Burgess Meredith, the unique comedy, "On Our Merry Way," is having its premiere showing at the Odeon Theatre today through United Artists release. Benedict Bojars produced the film in collaboration with Mr. Meredith from an original story authored by gifted Arch Oboler of radio fame.

YORK THEATRE

Everyone's tired of the gag, but it still persists. With co-stars Gene Tierney, Rex Harrison and George Sanders ready to do a pier scene on the northern California location set of 20th Century-Fox's "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," which is now at the York Theatre, Director Joseph L. Mankiewicz had to stop the scene and wait for a repeat job.

On one of the pier pilings, where studio workmen had carefully lettered the name "Anna Muir" for the scene the previous night so that it would be ready for the morning close-up, there appeared instead:

"Kilroy was here."

CAPITOL THEATRE

There's a new Alan Ladd in Paramount's "Beyond Glory," a Ladd faced with situations out of which even he cannot slug his way. Yet, in the gripping, romantic drama which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre, Ladd solves the conflict which rages within him with all the emotional impact and suspenseful action contained in his former slam-bang thrillers.

Deaf, Dumb Flee Theatre Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Lip-reading and the manual language of the deaf and dumb were used Monday to guide 400 children out of a fire-threatened movie house in Brookline.

The youngsters, students at DePaul Institute for the Deaf, had just seen a cartoon and were awaiting the feature.

But the screen stayed dark because a fire had started in the sub-basement. The theatre manager whispered a warning to Father Raymond Doherty.

The priest and several nuns passed the word along to their charges. Within a few minutes, the 400 children had filed through the exits.

The fire caused $300 damage.

Just 65 More Shopping Days Till ???

SAY LISTEN . . . fellow merchants, in all lines of endeavor, whatta-U say . . . we all get together. And try & hold back on Christmas promotion, October's too early . . . to start the commotion. "That's NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS," do I hear U say, "coz we're starting right NOW" . . . with our "Lay-Away." To which I answer, it's MUCH too soon, at LEAST the end of the month . . . more opportune. Too soon even then, to start the cajoling, begin the momentum . . . get the ball rolling. 'Cause if in October we start to beg, we're gonna kill that goose . . . with the golden egg. 'Cause by December . . . with the 25 beneath, parents are simply . . . fed to the teeth. The bally hoo . . . just TOO much for them, the build-up too L-O-N-G, & so they condemn.

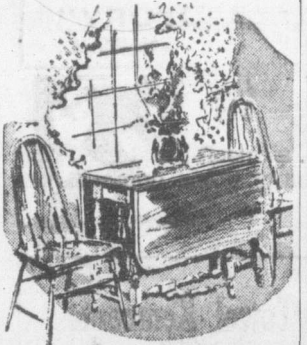

We have 2 of these drum tables . . . wanna put 'em at either end of your sofa?? $45 each in walnut.

BESIDES, parents have a terrible time, to keep little Johnnie in this pantomime. All stewed up, for three months or so, that when Christmas DOES come . . . he's lost his glow. And from a mountain of stuff under the tree (mostly charge . . . a few C.O.D.) he just grabs one, hides in a nook, and smears all over his crayon book. One thing ONLY from Santa's packs, it's ALL too MUCH . . . so this anti-climax.

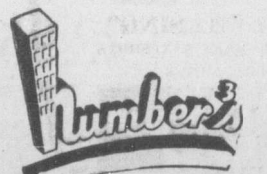

These have S.P. loose cushions, resting against a detachable back rest . . . make into twin beds . . . wine, green or blue . . . warehoused $59 or $20 down.

AND YET we're starting in . . . even now, to add more lines to our fevered brow. As the momentum increases, the ball takes your cash, the ballyhoo gets louder . . . & so does the splash. More bangles appear, as the ball gets bigger, & tighter your dough . . . you gotta "tigger." & even rugged individuals, who WON'T be led, weaken when they see . . . Santa Claus . . . in the red. And the radio continues, all the while, till "White Christmas" . . . you could pitch it a mile.

This gate-leg table is a handy thing around the living-room . . . it's in walnut . . . only $39.

SO YOU SEE . . . if U DON'T heed this warning, what you're up against . . . till Christmas morning. And the gifts are old, with a battered look, & Johnnie sits disillusioned . . . in his nook. So let's HOLD IT . . . whatta-U say, 'cause there's 85 more days . . . TILL CHRISTMAS DAY.

OLD SAGA TELLS OF WHITE CHILD BORN IN NEW WORLD

Who was the first white child born in the new world? Without thinking too hard about the answer to that question, some persons might reply, "Virginia Dare," but that would be a mistake. Virginia Dare is believed to have been the first English child born on this side of the Atlantic, but hundreds of Spanish babies were born in Cuba, Mexico and South America before little Virginia saw the light of day. She was born on Roanoke Island, 361 years ago. It may be that the first white child born in the new world was a member of a Norse family. Old Norse sagas tell how Lief Ericson found Vinland about the year 1000, and these story poems also speak of Norse settlers who entered Vinland later and built homes for themselves. The claim is made that a child was born in the family of Thorfinn Karlsefni and his wife, Gudrid, who were among the settlers. The child was a son who was given the name of Snorri.

If that saga contains a true account, Snorri must have been the first white child born on our continent, and he was far ahead of any white child in Latin America. The Norsemen found Vinland almost five centuries before Columbus crossed the ocean. Karlsefni was the leader of the Norse colonists. Leaving their home in Greenland, these people rowed and sailed westward until they reached the coast of a country which they called Helluland, meaning Flat Stone Land. Helluland probably was what we now call Labrador.

Two days later, the Norsemen reached a coast farther to the south, very likely the island of Newfoundland. They spent a winter there before sailing on to what they believed to be Vinland, which had been discovered by Lief Ericson. The Norse account says that they settled beside a river which flowed from a lake into the sea. This place may have been Nova Scotia, but the point is doubtful. The Norse settlers gave up their colony at length. It is supposed that they stayed away from Greenland for three years before admitting that their colony was a failure.

Conscription Plan To Be Offered At Veterans' Parley

A resolution urging compulsory military training for Canadians between 18 and 25 will be placed before the National Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans' Association this week. The association, Canada's oldest ex-servicemen's organization, is scheduled to begin its first west coast convention in Victoria Wednesday.

Charles H. Leitch, West Vancouver, said a resolution urging at least one year of basic military training has been drafted for the meeting.

The resolution, he said, recognized "an immediate need to implement Canada's armed forces in proportion to those of Britain and United States" and "considered the proposed training necessary for the disciplinary and physical development of our youth."

Mr. Leitch said the resolution probably would be contested by many of the 300 delegates expected to attend.

More Canadians Than British Attend Church

MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. C. Ritchie Bell, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said in an interview Monday that "Canadians are far better church-goers than the British."

Mr. Bell, who arrived Monday aboard the liner Ascania after attending the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, said that in England "only one out of five persons attends church."

Speaking of the Amsterdam meeting, he said "churches of many traditions and diverse lands which for long had misunderstood, ignored and misrepresented one another, sat down to plan a brighter future."

British Movie Actors Oppose Growing Invasion From Hollywood

LONDON (Reuter)—Fearing a growing invasion from Hollywood, British film actors and actresses are preparing to fight for their futures in the British film industry.

They believe that, unless they take vigorous action, foreign—and particularly American—players will eventually push them out of British-made pictures.

Their Equity Union now is fighting for representation on discussions of various official film matters. "This representation issue will blow up in the next two or three months. If we do not get what we want—and I doubt if we shall—British actors and actresses will strike in the studios," Gordon Sandison, general secretary of Equity, said in an interview.

Already there have been a few cases under the Anglo-American exchange agreement when a star from the United States has been awarded a part which a British star coveted and could have filled adequately. The British star has subsequently been reduced to the status of a supporting player.

"These incidents have caused disquiet among the British stars," Sandison said. "They have not become large-scale yet, but British actors and actresses now are awakening to the fact that they are not on an equal negotiating level with Hollywood."

The union has a total of 9,000 members in three fields—theatre, radio and films. The film membership is 1,000.

First step in the campaign to protect their rights is to get their union represented on the national joint advisory council set up by Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, to advise the government on policy towards the film industry.

A union meeting is to take place this month. Ready for the fight are Sir Laurence Olivier, producer and actor of "Hamlet," veteran Herbert Marshall, who has starred in many U.S. films, Robert Donat and Richard Attenborough. They are on the union's 22-member film sub-committee.

Cougar Orphan Needs Home

If any zoo or park wants a baby cougar A. W. Patenaude of Langford will hand over this little fluffy ball of fury his young son, Norman, helps him hold. Otherwise it will be put to death.

A. W. Patenaude of Langford went deer hunting last week-end off Riverside Road on Kosilah River near Duncan, but he didn't get venison for the winter.

Instead he got $60 in cougar bounties.

Tramping through the bush, he came across a cougar mother with two kittens about six weeks old. He shot the mother, his dog Bruno killed one of the kittens and he has the second "youngster" very much alive. What happens now, he does not know, but he is hoping someone will take the little fellow off his hands soon, or he'll have to kill it.

NO HOME 'BODY'

Patenaude thinks perhaps a park or zoo will cage the kitten. Meanwhile it is creating havoc in his home.

The family cat doesn't like its wild cousin, and the dog would welcome an opportunity to get it alone. The kitten is learning to feed from a saucer, but it is a chore trying to convert the wild baby to domesticity.

Patenaude brought the kitten, its dead mother and the other offspring into town Monday and created a stir outside the City Hall where he parked his car. Hundreds of people crowded around to see the animals.

He is wondering why the mother did not turn on his dog when he stumbled over their hiding place under a pile of wind-falls. The mother bounded out when the dog went under the trees, leaving her babies behind. She stopped a short distance off, and Patenaude felled her with a single shot from his 30-30 rifle. The dog meanwhile was making quick work of the one kitten.

Bays, Scots To Renew Rugger Feud Saturday

There's a natural line up for the opening first division English rugger game of the season at Macdonald Park Saturday when Canadian Scottish meets J.B.A.A.

Last season whenever these teams met there was evidence of a feud of sorts in the air and despite denials, the games between the two clubs produced plenty of fireworks. And at least the league officials must have noticed it for right off the start this season they have put the two teams in the spotlight.

The other half of the double bill at the James Bay enclosure will find the Victoria College entry playing Navy on the lower field.

Several rule changes came up for discussion at last night's meeting of the Rugby Union, one of the main points being the question of points awarded for a penalty goal.

In England this year three points are awarded for a drop-kicked goal as against four points in previous seasons. However, four points will still be awarded in the city until the B.C.R.U. adopts the rule change.

NEW RULE ADOPTED

The union adopted the new off-side rule for set scrums which in short states that scrum halves and break forwards remain behind the centre of the scrum until the ball is clear of the scrum. Officials believe the rule change will open up the game, giving three-quarter movements a better chance to get moving.

International rule will be in effect in kicks to touch.

Schedule to Christmas follows: Oct. 16—Canadian Scottish vs. Navy; Victoria College vs. J.B.A.A.; Oct. 23—Navy vs. J.B.A.A.; Canadian Scottish vs. Victoria College; Oct. 30—Navy vs. J.B.A.A.; Canadian Scottish vs. Victoria College; Nov. 6—Navy vs. Victoria College; J.B.A.A. vs. Victoria College; Nov. 13—Victoria College vs. Canadian Scottish; J.B.A.A. vs. Navy; Nov. 20—J.B.A.A. vs. Canadian Scottish; Victoria College vs. Navy; Nov. 27—Canadian Scottish vs. Navy; Victoria College vs. J.B.A.A.; Dec. 4—Navy vs. J.B.A.A.; Canadian Scottish vs. Victoria College.

Table Tennis League To Start Oct. 18

Wilnot Browne-Cave was elected president with Nancy Craig, tournament chairman and Bill Tuthill, club captain. Audrey Wright was appointed chairman of social activities with Faith Macdonald, treasurer.

Eagles Soccer Team To Meet Thursday

The following players are asked to attend: Richards, Burdge, Fumeston, Wilson, B. Sluggitt, H. Turner, Slater, Whyte, R. Benn, W. Turner, J. Turner, Yardley, Donald, Michell, Kilshaw.

Big Day Planned At Holiday Grid Tilt

A gala day is being planned by the Victoria Cougars for the Thanksgiving Day match against the Vancouver Eagle-Time Club at Athletic Park at 2.30, it was announced today.

Arrangements are in the hands of Reg Hayward and Harry Gladwell and final plans will be announced within a few days.

Seattle Meets Oakland In Coast Ball Finals

It will be Oakland versus Seattle in the Coast League's final Governor's Cup playoff.

The pennant-winning Oaks won their semifinal series with Los Angeles, four games to two, with an 11 to 9 victory in 10 innings last night.

The final playoff set will start tomorrow night at Oakland with a $25,000 pot hanging in the balance. Winner takes $15,000, loser $10,000. Los Angeles and San Francisco, which fell 4 to 1 before Seattle, each received a $5,000 melon.

Oakland spotted the Angels a 9 to 2 lead, then boomed back

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

WITH a win and draw in two starts Manager Roy Barnes' Victoria United is off to a flying start in its Coast League soccer campaign. Local eleven will meet up with its toughest test of the new season here on Monday when St. Andrew's provides the opposition. Before that engagement Barnes has to get his forward line straightened out to provide the club with the added punch and must decide who is going to handle the centre-half position. In Saturday's match against North Shore Barnes had to move George Forbes back to his old berth after starting him at right half.

A CORRESPONDENT, who elects to remain anonymous, writes in to ask some interesting questions of Manager Barnes of the United. I quote: "Is it possible that the manager of Victoria United is overlooking talent right here in Victoria? I am referring to the player who performed at inside right for the intercity team during the second half of its exhibition match against an eleven from a visiting British ship here on Sept. 16."

WHY cast envious eyes towards unobtainable Vancouver players when we have a player of the same calibre right here? I have followed the United for a number of years and the player in question certainly turned in a good combination game with George Forbes and Andy Anderson. If Barnes wants to turn out the best team he can for Victoria, why hasn't this player been given a chance in a regular match? It was mentioned in newspaper reports this lad was battling for a berth so it is only reasonable to suppose that he would be given his chance. So far this has not been done, which makes one wonder if Barnes is concerned with merit only?

SPEAKING of soccer it will be remembered there was a lot of talk some months ago about a number of young players coming out to British Columbia from Scotland. It was said that a large group of promising youngsters were being screened and those with the necessary qualifications both from the standpoint of ability and trade training would be given a chance to come to the Pacific Coast. Now I am told the plan was nothing more than a lot of publicity. Three or four young players have come out to the coast from Britain but as for any big movement of players that is out. It was a good plan with no foundation.

T.A.C. TO WORK OUT: Tillicums third division soccer team will practice at Central Park tonight at 5.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE: Saanichton Community Club basketball teams will practice in the Agricultural Hall tonight at 7.30.

Canadian Legion soccer team will work out at Macdonald Park Wednesday evening at 7.30.

with five runs in the seventh and two in the eighth to tie the score. Singles by Brooks Holder, Cookie Lavagetto and George Metkovich followed by Nick Etten's fly brought the winning tallies.

Dewey Adkins was the victim, with Ralph Buxton, fourth Oak twirler, the winner.

Les Scarasella paced the Oaks 17-inning assault with a homer, a double, single good for four runs.

Short score: R. H. E. Oakland 10 12 0 Los Angeles 9 12 0 (10 innings) W. Hazy Jones (5), Balaban (6), Buxton (6) and Fernandez, Lombardi (9); Adkins, Anthony (10) and Novotny.

Washington Huskies Held To Tie

Rudy Ruppe (34), Oregon State College, snags a pass heaved by Don Samuel (not in picture) for a first down in the Oregon-University of Washington football clash at Portland. Dick Lorenz (83) blocks out Washington's Roland Kirby, who moved in on play. The game ended in a 14 to 14 deadlock.

Free Kisses, Snake Dances Mark Wild Celebration In Cleveland

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND (AP)—This city, after biting its fingernails down to the second knuckle the last few weeks as the Indians dilly-dallied in their attempt to win the American League pennant, was a debris-littered mess today.

A celebration, set off by the 8 to 3 victory over Boston Red Sox yesterday in the league's first sudden-death playoff, lasted into the wee, small hours.

To a casual visitor, not knowing the pent-up emotions of the off-frustrated Cleveland fans who have been denied a pennant since 1920, the celebration—a swashbuckling, noisy affair—must have resembled the Armistice Day blowout.

The hotels were the first to take action as the final score winged in. They immediately cleared their lobbies of furniture. And it was a good thing they did, for a few minutes later a flock of fans, generally headed by some big guy beating a brass drum, roared in.

Snake dances were a dime a dozen, and pennants bearing the legend "Cleveland Indians, 1948 world series champs," were a buck a copy. Practically everyone had one.

In every bar the pennants were table centrepieces, stuck in empty beer bottles. Folk dances were staged around them, with some of the highball-bearing customers bowing low to the flags and offering sundry toasts to the team.

Up and down Euclid Avenue, the main drag of this baseball-mad city, the fans surged on the sidewalks. In the street the lanes were filled with cars tooting their horns. Traffic was at a standstill for hours as the boys and girls let off steam.

Utter strangers, mostly of the younger set, planted kisses on the unresisting lips of many of the celebrants.

Eagles Youngest Club In Senior Cage League

Stepping up in company this year, Gar Taylor's Eagles are the newest and youngest club in the senior A basketball league. The other three clubs, Pro Patria, Y.M.C.A. and K.V.'s, each have had previous experience in senior competition. Y.M.C.A. and K.V.'s played off for the championship last season while Pro Pats are a combination of the Legion squad and the intermediate A Alcos.

But for the young birdmen the latest jump is a stiff one. The club during the past two years has been competing in the intermediate A division and last year in particular was a potent aggregation being just a shade under the calibre of the provincial championship Alcos quintette.

Coach Taylor, who played for the "Y" last year, is of the opinion that the boys are ready for senior competition but he would like to see one or two experienced players augment his tentative line-up.

When queried Monday Taylor would not give any definite team make-up, but said that all of last year's players would again be on hand for this season's play. Others who wish to try for positions on team are welcome to do so, he said.

OPEN SEASON

The team will get its first test of the season tomorrow night when the cage season officially gets under way at the High School gym, the first game of a double bill scheduled to start at 7.30.

Pitted against the Port Alberni senior A quintette, Eagles will have their work cut out as the up-landers are bidding for a spot in the senior league here and will be out to establish their right to senior A recognition.

When the Eagles take the floor at 9 against Port Alberni the following players will probably be in uniform for the Aerie squad: Howard Tooby, Cranston Browning, Jim Ranson, Bernie Anderson, Red McMillan, Howie Sland, Bill Page and Bob Long.

James Bay Scores Roller Puck Win

In opening roller hockey games of the season at Stevenson Memorial Park Sunday, James Bay defeated Oak Bay, 4 to 1, and Civil Servants and Foul Bay played to a 6 to 6 tie.

Harry Downs of James Bay topped the scorers in the Bay victory by racking up a pair of goals. Norm Coates got four goals for Civil Servants while Dick Chugranes notched a pair for Foul Bay.

Games next week find Civil Servants clashing with Oak Bay at 1.30 and James Bay playing Foul Bay at 3.

type. You can't keep him off the mound."

"The knuckler did it," added Boudreau, "they just couldn't hit it. I know one of their coaches was tipping the hitters every time he threw it—which was four out of every five—and they still couldn't connect."

Boudreau was the hitting star of his own team's sensational triumph with two homers and two singles. Right behind him came Ken Keltner, whose three-run homer knocked out Denny Galehouse, manager Joe McCarthy's surprise starter, in the fourth inning.

Boudreau, the player, never came through for Boudreau, the manager, in any more sensational fashion. It came right when the tribe needed a lift. They had blown a two-game lead in the waning days of the season and were forced to take that long overnight train ride from Cleveland to play this extra game.

Up stepped Boudreau, the player in the first inning of a no-score game to slam a Galehouse pitch over the leftfield fence. Everybody on the Cleveland bench was out to shake his hand except Boudreau the manager.

In the fourth inning with the score tied 1 to 1, Boudreau slashed a single to left. Joe Gordon followed with a single and Keltner batted his homer. Before it was over, four runs were in and Galehouse had been replaced by Ellis Kinder.

Not content with a 5 to 1 lead, Boudreau hit another homer into the screen atop the leftfield wall with two gone and nobody on in the fifth.

In the seventh he was walked intentionally in a rally that finally sputtered out with the bases full. Again in the ninth, Boudreau's single helped push around Eddie Robinson with the final score of a game that was fast becoming a rout.

Boudreau hitting and Boudreau fielding, taking part in two of the three "tribal" double plays, made you forget that other stars like Williams and Bobby Doerr were on the field.

And after it was all over, walking out of the shower room to accept more congratulations, there was Boudreau talking about the others and how they did their part to win.

"We're just going to Boston for the world series one day early," said Boudreau in Cleveland after their Sunday loss had forced a tie playoff. He was right.

Cornwall Deadlocks Eastern Boxla Final

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Cornwall Senators forced a deciding game in their eastern Canada senior lacrosse final with Hamilton Tigers when they upset the Ontario champions, 14 to 12, here Monday night.

The champions of the Quebec League showed an amazing reversal of form from the first game of the best-of-three playoff, which they lost, 13 to 4, at Lachine, Que., Saturday night. Cornwall spurred to an 11 to 2 lead and then fought off Tigers' closing drive.

The deciding game will be played here Wednesday night. The series winners then meet the western Canada champions, New Westminster Adanacs, for the Mann Cup in a best-of-five Dominion final opening in Toronto Oct. 11.

Fred Haas Captures Portland Golf Playoff

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Lanky Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans, won the three-way playoff for the Portland Open golf tournament Monday, defeating Ben Hogan and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C.

Haas carded a two-under-par 70 to beat out Hogan, with a 71. Palmer blew his chances when he took a dub's eight on the par-five 15th. He finished with a 75.

Haas pocketed $2,450 for the win.

Hogan won $1,750 for second place, which put him in front as leading money-winner of the year with $33,097 in 21 tournaments. He passed Lloyd Mangrum, who has earned $32,608 in 32 tournaments.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Calgary Stampeders were assured of finishing on top of Western Canada Senior Football Conference following their 26 to 6 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night. It was the Alberta club's eighth consecutive victory this season in league play.

Held on even terms in the first quarter, when each club counted one point, the rampaging Stampeders moved ahead in second quarter to lead 10 to 1, increased their lead to 14 to 1 in the third quarter and continued pressing in the final session to leave no doubt about victory.

Jim Turner May Take Over As Yanks' Pilot

NEW YORK (AP)—The job of leading the fabulous New York Yankees is open again for the fourth time since 1946.

Bucky Harris, who piloted the Yanks to third place this season after bossing them to the American League pennant and a world series triumph in 1947 is out in the cold.

The move, which surprised few, was made yesterday following a conference among Yankee president Dan Topping, general manager George Weiss and Harris.

In a prepared statement to the press the Yanks said that Harris' contract would not be renewed for 1949. The decision to let Harris go was by "mutual agreement," the terse announcement added.

The new manager will be selected at a future date, and considered for the post are several men "not including a player active with the 1948 team." Rumors had Harris on the way out for some time and the guess was that either outfielders Joe DiMaggio or Tommy Henrich would take over.

With players active on the 1948 team eliminated from consideration, the identity of the next Yankee leader is anybody's guess. Among those believed considered for the job are Jim Turner, former Yankee pitcher, and Bill Skiff, who led the Yanks' Newark farm club in the International League last year.

Turner has been at the helm of Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League for the last two seasons.

DRESSEN MENTIONED
Another possibility is Chuck Dessen, one-time manager of Cincinnati Reds and coach of the Yanks in 1948.

Harris 51, joined the Yanks in 1946 in an executive capacity under Larry Macphail. During that season, Joe McCarthy, Bill Dickey and Johnny Neun piloted the Yanks.

After Neun was released at the end of the season Harris was persuaded to relinquish his executive post and don the managerial flannels for 1947. Macphail's last year in the Yankee picture.

CALGARY WINS

Boucher Offered $75,000 And Warwick For Player

They gave Turk Broda the Vezina trophy last year because he let fewer pucks past him than any other goal tender in the National League.

But they forgot to tell his teammates. The Leafs scored on Broda 14 times in less than 2½ periods last night.

It was an exhibition charity game at Schumacher, Ont., against a pick-up team of northern Ontario amateurs who took on the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs after less than one week's practice.

Broda went into the all-stars nets when Leafs jumped into a 5 to 0 lead after 12 minutes. Leafs won 19 to 5, with the first line of Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker and Vic Lynn getting more than half the total of 45 scoring points the Leafs accumulated.

Among the things that cost a lot of money these days are hockey players. In fact, says manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers, you just can't buy them.

Boucher said recently that he offered $75,000 and Grant Warwick last year for an unnamed player, but he couldn't get him.

After a recent training camp game in which Rangers beat New Haven Ramblers, their American League farm team, Boucher and New Haven coach Lynn Patrick were talking it over at a dinner table packed with reporters and hockey executives.

Somebody mentioned "bricklayers."

"You know, Lynn," smiled Boucher, "after watching your team this afternoon, I think you have a few bricklayers there."

"It's your fault, you gave me the team," cracked the big-boned Lynn.

BRIMSEK ILL.
Veteran Frankie Brimsek will be missing when Boston Bruins break their training camp at Hershey, Pa. Coach Dit Clapper told Brimsek, who reported for practice seven pounds underweight and with a "strep" throat, to get out in the sunshine for a week.

Jack Gelineau, former McGill University hockey captain, will take over until Brimsek gets back in the Boston nets.

With Montreal Canadiens swinging through a western Canada exhibition tour, they all dropped into coach Dick Irvin's Regina home yesterday to hear the big baseball broadcast yesterday.

Canadiens play exhibition games at Moose Jaw, Regina, Winnipeg and Port Arthur before returning to Montreal for the Oct. 14 season opening.

Stan Musial Signs Two-Year Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial joined manager Eddie Dyer in reaching a two-year agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stan signed the contract, which calls for "a substantial increase," after a 15-minute talk with Redbird president Robert E. Hannegan.

Neither Musial nor Hannegan would say what salary the new terms call for, but most sources estimated it would bring the slugger Cardinal outfielder around $50,000 a year.

Dyer signed his two-year contract as manager last week.

Canadiens Far From Settled For Opener

By BERT ALLEN

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens will start the season with a goaltender and a defence second to none in the National Hockey League, two of the highest scoring forwards in Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard, and a flock of question-mark veteran and rookie forwards.

The Habituants will rise or fall on these "question-marks." If some come through as expected, then Canadiens might improve on last season when they finished fifth after four straight years on top of the heap.

To Coach Dick Irvin, who missed the playoffs last year for the first time in 19 years of handling N.H.L. teams, the club everyone has to look out for is the only one Canadiens finished ahead of last campaign — the Chicago Black Hawks.

But although Irvin is high on this year's edition of Canadiens, he wouldn't predict where the Habituants will finish in the final standing.

The Montreal coach thinks goalie Big Bill Durnan, four-time Vezina trophy winner, is in for a great season.

"Durnan has never looked better and is fully recovered from his knee injury that bothered him last year. He knows now that his knee will stand up and he hasn't a thing to worry about in that respect."

SAME DEFENCE

Irvin will open the season with the same defence that finished the schedule last year. Sure of regular spots are Kenny Reardon, Emile (Butch) Bouchard, Doug Harvey and Glen Harmon. Either Roger Leger or Hal Laycoe will be held in reserve, and the other probably will be farmed out to Buffalo of the American League.

Reardon, one of the circuit's hardest hitters and most colorful players, is in great shape after working in the Labrador woods in a construction project.

The Hab coach intends to keep experimenting until Canadiens return from their western tour to open the N.H.L. in Montreal Oct. 14 against New York Rangers. But whoever gets the nod for the coveted spot, should get himself a bundle of scoring points.

"If Robertson is left with those fellows (Lach and Richard) I wouldn't be surprised if he won the rookie award," says Irvin.

Eddie Dorohoy, 19-year-old speedster who played with Lethbridge Native Sons juniors last season, impressed while playing with Lach and Richard in early practices, but now Irvin has shifted him to another line. Robertson and Dorohoy are two rookies pretty sure to stick.

OTHER FORWARD LINES

The other attacking units are far from set. Billy Reay centres Joe Carveth and Norm Dussault on one trio, while veteran Murphy Chamberlain has been playing left wing on two lines, with Dorohoy and Bobby Fillion and with Kenny Mosdell and Fillion. Howard Riopelle and Tod Campeau are the two other forwards.

But the key men are Lach and Richard. Here's how Irvin sums it up: "The Rocket has received two major penalties in exhibitions so far and I regard this as a good sign. It means that he doesn't intend to let them hook him, hold him and check illegally as they did all last season."

"I think Richard has a good

Four Victoria A's Given Berths On W.I.L. All-Star Club

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Spokane's pennant-winning Indians and the runner-up Bremerton Bluejackets may have had the team strength, but the third-place Victoria Athletics had the individual stars who made the biggest impression with sports writers around the Western International League.

Four Victoria players—Pitcher Joe Blankenship, first-baseman Vic Buccola, third-baseman Babe Jensen and outfielder Archie Wilson—were named by the scribes on the official W.I.L. all-star team released today by Robert B. Abel, league president. Spokane and Bremerton had to be content with two each.

Fourth-place Tacoma, Vancouver, Salem and Wenatchee each landed one player on the all-star selection, and the scribes picked Alan Strange, Bremerton pilot, as the No. 1 manager.

Jack Warren, Vancouver catcher called up by the parent Seattle Rainiers before the end of the campaign, was the backstopping choice, while Bremerton's Lloyd Hittle, who south-pawed 17 wins against seven defeats, and Spokane's Frank Nelson, who finished with a 24-10 record, were named with Blankenship as the pitchers. The Victoria ace, who emerged with 25 wins, 10 defeats, set a new league record for victories.

Eddie Samcoff of Bremerton at second base and Leo Thomas of Spokane at shortstop rounded out the all-star infield, while Wenatchee's Bill Wilson and Salem's Dick Sinovic joined Archie Wilson in the outfield and Tacoma's Larry Lee was picked as the utility man.

Archie Wilson won the league batting title with a .369 average, while Sinovic was second with .352. Bill Wilson, who batted .312 for the season, was the league homer king with 33.

Dick Irvin Tells About His Statistics System

REGINA (CP)—The mastermind of the National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens sat on an apple box in the sun-drenched garden of his Regina home and topped beats.

And between snips of his topper, white-haired Dick Irvin had a few things to say about a statistics system he's used since the late 20's when he coached Chicago, and which Branch Rickey of the National Baseball League's Brooklyn Dodgers has adopted.

"This system has grown bigger than when I first used it," he said. "Used it at Toronto, and they still have it. Gave it to Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings two years ago when we were out here on that exhibition fling. Now Branch Rickey's got it."

What he meant by his system was a record kept during every game of such factors as when a line or player went on the ice, and when it, or he, left.

The number of goals scored by, or against a line; the number of shots taken by a player, where he shot from; shots missed, and other data as technical as an engineer's handbook all go down.

Irvin, back in Regina with his Canadiens, who are staging a series of exhibition matches in the west before starting the season next week, said he likes his record system.

"You know, I've seen good players go for games without getting a shot. Just couldn't get one. But sometimes I wish we kept a record of the defensive as well."

"Those goals players stop from being scored are sometimes more important than the goals they get."

But Irvin's records don't tell him who is going to win the Stanley Cup this year.

"We'll be close to the top rung," he said.

Irvin, however, once again predicted that Maurice (The Rocket) Richard was headed for a big year.

He thought that The Rocket might pass the 50-goal mark he chalked up in 1946 for a record that's one of his prize marks.

Betting Increase At Winnipeg Track

WINNIPEG (CP)—Wagering through the pari-mutuels at Polo Park during 25 days of thoroughbred racing this year totalled $4,216,707—$100,000 more than last year—it was announced Monday.

The average betting was slightly above $150,000 daily, with bets per race averaging about $22,000.

The provincial treasury, taking 10 per cent of gross receipts, received $393,716 after allowing a collection fee of $27,954 to the jockey club for collecting the government tax.

T.L.C. Convention To Discuss Many Contentious Questions

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention which will open next week deal with the whole gamut of national and trade union problems. It will be the largest convention of the congress in several years.

More than 260 resolutions by various locals have been submitted to the convention. They cover almost every subject of interest to workmen and work-women of the nation.

The resolutions committee, charged with integrating the resolutions will begin its big task Friday, preparing the resolutions for presentation to the more than 600 delegates who are coming from all parts of the nation.

They deal with such subject of national interest as the cost of living and price controls, health and safety, housing and immigration, income tax, labor codes, old-age pensions, racial discrimination, social security, unemployment insurance, national employment service and workmen's compensation.

Among the most contentious issues to come before the convention is the Canadian Seamen's Union. It will be thrashed out on the floor of the convention among the delegates.

This problem arises over the merger of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, rival of the C.S.U., with the powerful Seafarers' International Union of North America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The C.S.U. is an affiliate of the T.L.C., which in turn is generally affiliated with the A.F.L.

The merger was engineered by Frank Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, on the grounds that the C.S.U. was Communist-dominated.

OUTSTANDING CONFERENCE
"It should be one of the most outstanding and decisive conventions ever held in the history of the congress," said J. W. Buckley, secretary of the T.L.C. who is now in Victoria making arrangements for the convention.

Percy Bengough, president of the T.L.C. and members of the T.L.C. executive are expected in Victoria Wednesday or Thursday. The bulk of the delegates will probably arrive during the week-end for the convention opening on Monday.

Because the congress is national in scope the affairs of the convention will be conducted in both French and English. All resolutions will be printed in both languages and on the majority of the committees, including all the major ones, will have an officer who speaks French.

It is not likely, however, that much French will be spoken during the actual proceeding of the convention.

A local committee is working out details of entertainment for the delegates and their wives.

Victoria Liberal Association Opens New Headquarters

New headquarters of the Victoria Liberal Association on Government Street, at Johnson, was officially opened Monday evening by Arthur Laing, president of the British Columbia Liberal Association, who was introduced by Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, president of the Victoria Liberal Association.

Over 500 guests were entertained. There were many visitors from Vancouver, Nanaimo, Duncan, Sooke, Langford and all districts surrounding Victoria.

The new headquarters consist of three large halls, three main offices and a fully equipped kitchen. This will enable the Liberal Women's Forum, the Laurier Club, the Young Liberals and the senior association to hold meetings and social gatherings simultaneously any time during the season.

'Must Finish Rink'

Citizens continue to write the City Council on the Memorial Arena question, and the latest letter received today states the rink must be finished as soon as possible as there is a definite need for it in the community.

The writer is Elizabeth M. Davidson, 220 Michigan Street, and she states:

"The arena would have been operating now had the project been handled by competent private enterprise. What is done cannot be undone, but that which is yet to be done can, and should be accomplished in business-like fashion."

Bishop To Speak

Bishop H. E. Sexton will give some impressions of his recent trip to Great Britain at the Christ Church Harvest At Home and congregational social tomorrow night at 8, in Memorial Hall. A musical program has been arranged and refreshments will be served.

Washington Attorney Elected Kiwanis Governor At Conventon

John J. Langenbach of Raymond, Wash., was today elected to serve during 1949 as governor of all Kiwanis clubs in the Pacific northwest district, which takes in British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and the panhandle of Idaho.

An attorney by profession, Mr. Langenbach was the unanimous choice of the 31st annual district convention at its concluding business session held in the Royal Theatre this morning.

The name of Raymond Wise of Bellingham was also submitted as a candidate for the high office but was withdrawn at Mr. Wise's own request.

Governor-elect Langenbach has been a member of Kiwanis for 23 years, having been a charter member of the Raymond club when it was formed in 1925. During his many years of service, he has held many offices and has maintained a 100 per cent attendance record.

He served during 1946 as a lieutenant-governor in the district.

In addition to his Kiwanis activities, Mr. Langenbach has served in the past as district commander of the American Legion and as a grand exalted ruler in the Elks Lodge.

Mr. Langenbach will succeed Ben H. Hazen, Portland, Ore., as Kiwanis district governor.

Says Appeasement No Way To Deal With Soviet Union

Appeasement by the western democracies toward the U.S.S.R. is no way to try and prevent a third world war, Rev. William Jaw, Anglican clergyman, told delegates to the 21st annual Pacific Northwest Kiwanis Convention at a session in the Royal Theatre today.

"I believe the shortest way to accomplish war is for us to go 'cap in hand' to the Kremlin at Moscow," the minister said. "And I say to anyone, who believes that we should, to remember Munich."

"I believe in peace," he continued, "not because I'm afraid of war, but because I believe democracy is geared to peace. The Communists in Russia are believers in dictatorship, however, and are believers in the doctrine of force."

The Iron Curtain, Mr. Hills described as an ideological barrier.

"It is a curtain which separates the world and which cannot be blasted down. Rather, it will have to be lifted by two hands—one, the hand of the democratic leaders and the other, the hand of Stalin and his crowd."

Dealing with the threat of Communism to North America, Mr. Hills said the people of this continent could best ward off the Communist danger by "selling" the good points of democracy.

"We, who live in a democracy, dwell too much on the failing of our system, rather than its achievements. We forget that we live in the best hemisphere in the whole world and that the standard of living we enjoy is unparalleled."

Chow Gow, Chinese from Elder Logging Co., Sooke, pleaded guilty in the city police court today to a charge of supplying beer to an Indian. He was remanded till Friday for sentence. On display in the court were several liquor bottles and beer cases found in the accused man's room when he was arrested. An interpreter was used for the accused, who did not understand English.

Mayor To Ottawa; City Resolution To Be Presented

A Victoria resolution on cost of living is among several to be presented to the federal cabinet by the national executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities next month, and Mayor Percy George will travel to Ottawa to assist in the presentation.

The mayor is scheduled to leave for east on Nov. 7 and he expects to be away for approximately two weeks.

Resolutions to be submitted were passed recently at the annual convention of the federation in Halifax. The federation executive on which Mayor George and Mayor William Mott of New Westminster represent B.C., is meeting in Montreal Nov. 11, and will meet the cabinet the following day at Ottawa.

The cost-of-living resolution submitted by Mayor George at the Halifax convention urges the government to curb inflationary pressures now pressing upon Canadian economy.

Other important resolutions on the list include one pertaining to taxation of crown properties; formation of a Trans-Canada Highway commission; modernization of building by-laws; municipal exemption from sales and excise taxes; recognition of the federal government of full responsibility in relief for unemployed;

Sharing of the cost of construction and maintenance of municipal airports; zoning regulations in urban municipalities; increased pensions for war veterans; higher old-age pensions; prevention of sex crimes; circulation of undesirable publications; housing; and Dominion-provincial-municipal relations.

Slavs Determined To Keep Germany Weak-Dr. Sobell

The Slavic people of Europe are giving Russia vital strength because of the treatment they received in the past from Germany, said Dr. James O. St. Clair-Sobell of U.B.C., in a lecture here Monday night.

He addressed an audience of nearly 300 in the auditorium of the Victoria College-Normal School. It was the opening lecture of a winter series sponsored by the Victoria branch of the University Extension Association.

Prof. Robert T. Wallace, association president, said it was the best initial meeting the association has had. The turn-out was gratifying, and 180 of the audience signed as members of the association.

Dr. Sobell, professor of Slavonic studies at U.B.C., said the Slavic people fear a resurgence of German power and they are determined to keep Germany as weak as possible.

Resulting support of the U.S.S.R. is one of the most important factors in Russia's present position, Dr. Sobell said.

He looked upon the present crisis in Berlin as merely an international incident. The important thing is the issue behind the crisis.

The Soviet government, he stated, regards interference by capitalistic powers in what she regards as her rightful territory as an act tantamount to war.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

James Fisher and Frank Dobson, charged with conspiracy, were committed for trial in higher court by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

They were released on cash bail of $1,250 each.
P. J. Sinnott is conducting the defence.

Both Sides Express Confidence Over Airpark Squabble

Although work on the Greater Victoria Memorial Airpark at Gordon Head is proceeding, indications are that the airpark association may still have a fight on its hands.

Under the Municipal Act, Reeve E. C. Warren of Saanich can, within one month, intervene and return the by-law which permits rezoning of the area in question for airpark purposes to the council.

The reeve was voted from the chair at the last regular council meeting while the by-law was passed. He had earlier refused the motion to pass the by-law's final reading on the basis of the opinion of the municipal solicitor that the by-law was invalid.

Officials of the airpark association are confident that they have a case, however.

DAMAGE SUIT

They hinted today that should the Saanich Council take any action which would invalidate the zoning by-law and thus force a halt to the work going on, they would find themselves with a damage suit involving "several thousand dollars" on their hands.

Airpark official questioned on the matter said that between $5,000 and $7,000 work has now gone into the Gordon Head site in clearing and leveling. The work was done while the by-law was apparently valid.

The official also pointed out that the figure he gave is against the hundreds of thousands claimed by airpark opponents as the cost of construction.

"This airpark will be built as economically as possible without sacrificing its quality. It will be built at no cost to the community, and will serve as a necessary asset to it in this air age," the official said.

One comeback on the council the association had, it was hinted, was that the letter sent to the municipal solicitor requesting an opinion on the validity of the by-law was sent by either a member of the council or on instruction from a member of the council as an individual. It was not sent on the full authority of the council, it is claimed.

Whether or not this has a bearing on the case is a moot point. A councillor today said that it did not matter who sent the letter—the fact remains that the reply was an expression of opinion addressed to the council by the solicitor.

NOT WORRIED

The councillor added that he was not particularly worried over the situation at present, since the Air Park Association does not now own enough property to meet the Department of Transport's requirement for an 1,800-foot runway with a 14-foot clearance over the adjoining road.

This 14-foot clearance would mean, based on a glide angle of one foot in 20, that there would have to be 280 feet between the road and the end of the runway.

Today's exchange of volleys closed with a statement from W. A. Scott, president of the Memorial Airpark Association, who said: "All we want is to give lower Vancouver Island an airpark at no cost to the community. We want to be constructive, not obstructive. If this opposition persists, Saanich taxpayers, as a whole, may find themselves paying for the folly of certain members of the Ward Three Ratepayers' Association."

Change Sentence

Following appeal by the Crown on the grounds that the $50 fine imposed by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court was "inadequate" in view of the "gravity" of the offence and the circumstances surrounding it, Court of Appeal Monday ruled that Alan Peterson, 18, serve six months in jail for indecent assault instead of paying the fine.

H. Alan Maclean, assistant deputy attorney-general, appeared for the Attorney-General's Department, which instituted the appeal. J. G. Rutan was counsel for Peterson.

Pair Charged Following Balmoral Grocery Theft

Two men charged with breaking and entering Balmoral Grocery, 1024 Finlayson Street Sunday night appeared in city police court today.

Thomas F. Buckle, 217 Cook Street, reserved plea and was remanded till Thursday. Sinclair Elliott appeared for him.

Frank Cross, no fixed address, was also remanded till Thursday after he had pleaded not guilty. Stolen from the grocery were 11 cartons of cigarettes, eight pounds of chocolates and a carton of chocolate bars. Total value of missing goods was estimated at $90.

B.C. Automobile Deaths Fewer But Number Injured Increase

The alarming increase in highway traffic deaths last year has apparently been stopped this year.

Statistics released today by the motor vehicle superintendent's office, showed a 59.09 per cent decrease in August automobile deaths this year compared with last and an 18.42 per cent decrease in traffic deaths for the first eight months of this year compared with the corresponding period of last year. The nine deaths in August brought the eight-month total to 93. Last year's corresponding total was 114.

In 1947, 197 British Columbians died in traffic accidents—the greatest number in the history of the province. Traffic deaths in 1946 totaled 147.

The decrease in traffic deaths is the only encouraging feature of the automobile accident statistics for this year. Increases have been recorded in accidents, number of persons injured and in the property damage. These increases far outstrip for the most part the increase in the number of motor vehicles licensed to operate in the province.

For August the statistics show 1,469 accidents, an increase of 44.4 per cent over 1947; 519 persons injured, an increase of 26.3 per cent, and $289,338 property damage, an increase of 76.6 per cent.

For the first eight months of this year the statistics show 10,087 accidents—up by 41.9 per cent over last year; 3,014 persons injured, a gain of 17.1 per cent; $1,751,140 property damage, a gain of 70.4 per cent.

The number of motor vehicles licensed to operate on B.C. highways at the end of August this year totaled 188,412, an increase of 15.7 per cent over the same date in 1947.

Officials of the division are not so concerned about the increase in the number of accidents and the total property damage as the increase in the number of persons injured. Rising costs of motor vehicles and repair bills have been partly responsible for the rise in the property damage and with the $25 damage minimum static for reporting an accident, more accidents now are reportable than previously.

In 1947 the number of persons injured increased by 14.5 per cent over the previous year.

FINES TOTAL $83

A total of $83 went into the city coffers today gathered from parking and speeding fines.

Twenty-four citizens paid a dollar each for meter violations, 12 paid $2.50 for other parking infractions and two were fined $15 each for speeding.

A wallet containing $124 is reported lost somewhere in the city by James Parkinson, 205 Burnside Road.
